RAILWAY DISASTERS.

Investigation into the Cause of the Erie Slaughter.

The Freight-Train Engineer Held Responsible and Arrested.

Employee Asleep—Instructions Flagrantly Violated.

REMARKABLE CHARGE AND VERDICT.

Serious Accident on the Union Pacific Railroad.

From a Special Correspondent.

LACKAWAXEN, Penn., Friday, July 16, 1869.

An inquest was held to-day at this place by the coroner of the victims of the Mast Hope disaster, and a verdict was rendered implicating JAMES GRIFFIN, the engineer of the freight train which, by moving on to the regular track from the siding just as the express train was about to pass, caused the fearful calamity. GRIFFIN, who immediately after the occurrence fled, was captured to-day near Salamanca, N. Y., by a detective of the Erie Railway Company and brought to Pennsylvania, where the intention was to keep him in custody at Milford. The officials of the Company declare that an example will be made of him and that they will use their best efforts to have him arraigned, tried, convicted and punished. The case seems to be a very plain one, and though he has borne a good character, and there is, of course, no entire absence of malicious intent in his act, it is the sentiment of the community hereabouts that the welfare of the community demands that when engineers have been guilty of criminal negligence, resulting in so great loss of life, it should be demonstrated at once that the laws will deal severely with them.

The charred remains of eight victims of the disaster were this morning removed from the boxes in which they were at first gathered and placed in plain pine coffins. All trace of identity is completely lost in them. Some of them are mere blackened trunks from which all the flesh has been burned and the limbs severed. Others are mere collections of blackened cinders and pieces of bone, which being found in little heaps together with some shreds of clothing among them, are judged to be the remains of human beings. All that is left of two of the little children is two little heaps of cinders. It is probable that the killed are only eight in number, but it is possible that of the thirty-four passengers who were in the smoking car, others were burned to death—possibly unknown emigrants, with no friends here to note their loss, and whose dreadful fate will never be made known to their friends in the Fatherland.

The remains of Dev. Dr. HALLECK, which, though not quite so badly burned as the others, were yet but a crisp-charred outline of a fleshless head and trunk, have been removed to New-York. The rest will be buried to-day in Laurel Grove Cemetery at Port Jervis, where the Erie Railroad Company purchased a lot at the time of the Carr's Rock tragedy, and in it interred the remains of the friendless ones who met their death there.

THE TESTIMONY.

The more notable points of the testimony before the Coroner's jury to-day are the evidence concerning the sleepy habits of some of the employes of the railroad, and that which relates to the singular forgetfulness of some of them at the scene of the disaster that there might be human lives to be saved. The Coroner's jury sat at 1 o'clock, and finished its labors in a couple of hours. Mr. C. C. CAMPBELL, the Coroner, assisted by several lawyers employed by the Railroad Company, conducted the examination. The following is the

TESTIMONY OF PERRY HOYT.

I was fireman on the passenger train; I was putting in fire when the accident occurred; I saw nothing of it till we struck the engine; we were running about thirty miles an hour, running time; I saw the freight train, but could not see whether it was moving or not; it was at a quarter to twelve o'clock P. M.; I looked ahead before I put in the fire; did not see a man with a lamp on the platform; our engineer was at his post; he had hold of the throttle valve; he always runs with his hand on the throttle; his name is Charles Decker; after the cars ran together there were three cars broken up and six burned; these cars were piled up immediately; I supposed that the freight train was standing still when I saw the accident; I saw no one on the caboose of the engine of the freight train; the engineer of our train eased off below the switch till he saw the other train was on the switch, and then went on; I noticed no lights on the freight train; I was thrown immediately after the fire was kindled and they took him to a private house; I saw the fireman of the other engine after the accident; I heard them say he was on the engine; I heard them say he left Port Jervis ten City or ten City-five; we left Port Jervis, I think, thirty minutes late; we gained four minutes between there and Mast Hope; at the time of passing Mast Hope we were running at our ordinary running time; at small stations we generally lose time; on this occasion time had commenced on the engine when the accident occurred; I was injured in the hand; there was a curve which prevented our engineer from seeing far; it was a dark, foggy night.

To the Coroner—All I know of the cause of the accident was from what my engineer said; he said we struck the freight train; I did not see it.

TESTIMONY OF JUDSON D. BROWN.

Am conductor of the freight train First Extra No. 2 left Port Jervis on the minute of twenty past eight; reached Lackawaxen on time; left at a quarter past ten, and reached Mast Hope at forty-two minutes past ten; I closed the switch and laid on the switch; I pulled up to the spur near the west end of the switch to let there for train Nos. 7 and 1; No. 7 passed about fifty or fifty-one minutes past ten; she was two or three minutes late; I stood in the hind door of my caboose when No. 3 passed; I heard No. 3 before she whistled; heard her whistle; saw her head-light; she was just passing when I felt my caboose jerked; she was about twenty-five or twenty-seven minutes late, running at about thirty-five miles an hour; her engineer told me she was running at the rate of forty miles; my engineer's name is JAS. GRIFFIN; he is a good, careful man; I don't recollect ever seeing him touch a glass of liquor; he has been employed on the engine about a year on the road; he pulled me two or three times a week; there were forty-two cars in my train; I could not have stopped my train if I had tried; it would have taken from three to five minutes to walk up to the engine; I think GRIFFIN was asleep; I have had his acknowledgment that he was asleep; the cause of the accident was his moving up; I have known him to be asleep on his post before; I have every confidence in him; I felt our train move ahead and then stop suddenly; it is the flagman's duty to open the switch, and mine to see that it is closed behind me; the flagman's name is Edward Smith; he told me he was on the platform of the depot; I suppose he thought our engineer was moving forward a little, so as to follow closely when the express passed; I went up as soon as the accident occurred and I met the flagman of No. 3; I found the sleepers burning; it was about three minutes after the train struck; I went back to my caboose for a bucket and ax; I suppose the fire was caused by the coal of the engine; the fire must have dropped badly; I went to work uncoupling the sleepers with the assistance of others; the cars were so mixed up that I cannot tell how long either one was burning; I gave all the aid I could, and then came afoot to Lackawaxen for assistance; the accident was caused by the express engine running into engine of my train; the engineer of the express train could see the other locomotive on the track probably one hundred feet from the point where the disaster occurred; he could not have stopped; I should not think our engine moved more than three or four car lengths; a freight car is from twenty-six to thirty feet long; it is customary for the engineer to move out from the switches without a signal, though it is contrary to instructions for him to do so; when I get an order to lay on a switch, the engineer gets a copy of it; I had no orders about pulling out; I had the rights of way over train No. 3 passed, according to the time table; he woke up Patrick Callahan and Michael Durgin, the brakeman, in my caboose just before the express came; it is necessary, though not allowed, for the men to go to sleep when the train is stopped in this way and the conductor wakes them; my orders are to keep the brakeman on the train always when running on the main track; the cause of the death of the persons killed was the collision with my train.

TESTIMONY OF EDWARD SMITH.

Am flagman of the freight train; at the time of the collision I was sitting on the platform of the station-house; I saw the express train coming; I saw our engine move a little; the worker was passed and backed and I had the lever in my pocket; it was right for the westward-bound track; No. 7 had passed; I was in the act of lighting my lamp, and beat over it to turn it up, and that was the last I remember; the train struck the platform, and I was thrown down the bank; I was hurt so that I could hardly walk and was carried up; the watchman passed up between the arrival of trains Nos. 7 and 3, and I was talking with him awhile before the accident; I have not seen our engineer since; I am always at the head of my train in order to give the signal for running off the switch in such a case; I had given no signal; I never saw our engineer drink that I know of; I have known him over a year; his general character I never heard much about; our train was not moving when the express passed the caboose of our train; the caboose is a car in which the conductor, a freight train hand, lives between trips, and each trip occupying on an average about nine or ten hours.

TESTIMONY OF KARL BARR.

A fireman, who was one of the passengers on the train, said that his father, himself and his cousin, and a German, his wife and three children were sitting in a car; his father was killed by the collision; he found him dead before the fire reached him; about thirty-four persons were in the car; a woman in the car was killed by the collision; all of the family except himself and his cousin were killed; he was asleep at the time of the crash.

TESTIMONY OF GEO. S. REDDINGTON.

Superintendent of the Delaware Division of the Erie Road, testified, giving the statement of Mr. Wheaton, the brother-in-law of Rev. Mr. Halleck, concerning the manner of that gentleman's death. He said he thought Mr. Halleck was killed before the fire reached him.

This closed the testimony. The Coroner made the following decidedly unique charge to the jury:

CHARGE OF THE CORONER.

GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: You are called here to-day on a case of more than common importance. It is made your imperative duty to learn how these persons came to their death. I assume it; Pike County demands it; the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania demands it; and we will have it!

THE VERDICT.

The jury had the case under private consideration but a short time, and returned the following verdict:

An inquisition indicted and taken at Lackawaxen, in the County of Pike and the State of Pennsylvania, before me, CHARLES C. CAMPBELL, Coroner of the County aforesaid, upon the review of the remains of Rev. R. B. HALLECK, DANIEL BARR and six others, names unknown, by the jurors of the passengers on the train called No. 3, which left New-York at 6.20 P. M., on the Erie Railway on July 14, 1869, and arrived at Mast Hope, Pike County, Penn., at 11.50 P. M. at which place it came in collision with the engine of extra freight train No. 2, which was caused by the recklessness, as the jury believe, of JAMES GRIFFIN, the engineer of the freight train No. 2; by drawing the train out of the switch before train No. 3 had passed, causing the death of the above-mentioned persons. And we do entirely exculpate JUDSON D. BROWN, conductor of train No. 2, and all other persons, from any blame whatever, except the said JAMES GRIFFIN.

(Signed) C. C. CAMPBELL, Coroner.
THOS. J. RIDGWAY, Foreman.
J. M. Williamson, W. K. Ridgway, C. F. Millhin, J. H. Vanderhof, R. B. Seaman.

Mr. R. W. STRONG, on behalf of the Erie Railroad Company, to-day settled the claims of all who were injured and are at the Delaware House. These are the following: D. WEBTWORTH, HURT, FLOWERS, and the two German emigrants, BARR and GRAUES. BARR is settled with for personal injuries and the loss of his father. For the latter he receives $6,000.

And thus the last railroad horror was disposed of finally; for who ever heard of any action beyond the verdict in a case of railroad slaughter?

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Accident Near Antelope Station, West of Omaha—A Train Thrown Off the Track—Two Men Killed.

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 16.

Mr. CROSBY S. NOYES, the editor of the Evening Star, sends the following to that paper, dated Sidney Station, July 15:

"Our train on the Union Pacific Railroad ran off the track this morning near Antelope Station, about 400 miles west of Omaha. The fireman, named HALSON SHEARS, of Michigan, and a passenger, JOHN DUYER, of Emmitsburg, Md., were killed. The engineer, NICHOLAS WEEKS, of Maine, and two passengers, ALEXANDER WAGSTAFF, of St. Louis, and JOHN STEELE, of Cumberland, England, were badly injured. The engine, baggage car and three passenger cars were smashed up. The accident was caused by the heavy rains undermining the track. None of our party from Washington were injured. These included S. H. KAUFFMAN, President of the Evening Star Association; C. S. NOYES, editor of the Star; Mr. RAMSDELL, a well-known Washington correspondent, and others. A freight train is off the track above us by wash from the rains of Tuesday, and the passenger train going East went off the track below here from the same cause, killing one man—a discharged soldier. The rains have been very heavy here. The remnant of our train has been pulled down to Sidney waiting for the track to be repaired. We expect to start again Westward to-morrow."

OTHER ACCIDENTS.

The Disaster Near Leavenworth, Kansas—Full List of the Wounded—Collisions on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Road.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Friday, July 16.

The Democrat has a special dispatch from Lawrence, Kansas, which contains the following complete list of the persons wounded by the accident to the excursion train near Lawrence on the 14th inst.:

J. D. HERRIMAN, General Superintendent of the St. Louis and Indianapolis Railroad, slightly; JEO. PERKINS, President of the Bank of Commerce of Cleveland, slightly; FRANK FORD, Chief Engineer of the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati Road, badly scalp wound in the head; he is otherwise seriously but not fatally injured; E. S. FLINT, Superintendent of the same road, slightly; LUCIEN HILLS, of the same road, wounded about the head and otherwise injured, but not dangerously; E. KING, Treasurer of the Cleveland, Columbus and Indianapolis Road, right arm fractured; J. C. NOYES, Freight Agent of the Indianapolis and St. Louis Road, badly but not supposed fatally injured; ENOS NOYES, of St. Louis, slightly; General GRAFT, of the Terre Haute Express, injured about the head and shoulder; J. D. BLACK, of the Bank of Terre Haute, badly bruised and jammed; E. W. HAMMA, Attorney for the Indianapolis and St. Louis Road, left leg hurt and otherwise bruised; WILLIAM BLACK, of Terre Haute, head wound, nose and face; General COBURN, of Indiana, slightly injured; General BARNETT, of Cleveland, seriously injured; RODERICK KING, slightly hurt; JOSEPH BARNARD, conductor, badly hurt; JAS. ROBERTS, (colored,) porter for a party, badly hurt and burnt; a brakeman, supposed to be fatally injured; CHAS. HICKS, of Cleveland, slightly injured; H. E. JOHNSON, of the Cleveland Herald, slight fracture of his arm; OSCAR TOWNSEND, President of the Cleveland, Columbus and Indiana Central Road, slightly hurt in his back; STEVE RUSSELL, porter of the Superintendent of the Kansas Pacific Road, badly injured; General COBB, of Vincennes, slightly injured; Prof. WILSON, of Vincennes, slightly injured; Mrs. WILSON, slightly injured.

A special dispatch to the Republican from La Salle, Ill., states that a collision occurred between two freight trains on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad one mile west of Peru this morning, resulting in the demolition of nine cars, destined to Omaha, and the breaking of an equal number of freight cars bound East, and doing considerable damage to both of the engines. Nobody was hurt.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The Effects of the New Liquor Law—What the People Want.

From the Boston Advertiser, July 15.

It has been discovered by this time, except possibly in the councils of the State Temperance Alliance, that the new Liquor law is not the universal panacea its friends expected. There is a good deal of clamor against the officers, sometimes for doing too much, sometimes too little; if they were gifted with the discretion of archangels, the political interests with which their duties are complicated would expose them to the same clamor. Notwithstanding their activity since July 1, they have done as little as could be in reason expected, considering how much more the law requires of them than they have yet attempted to do. The sale of spirituous liquors at open bars has been much interfered with. The public sale of malt liquors was stopped for a few days. Large quantities of liquors, and fancy compounds have accumulated in the cellars of the State Constable. Suits have been begun in large numbers, to be determined by the Courts hereafter. But, on the other hand, drinking clubs have been revived on all sides; concealment and hypocrisy have taken the place of the effronteries of public drinking; the hotels and eating-houses continue to supply their guests without interruption; grocers and druggists find their trade stimulated by the change in the current, and the friends of the law have the satisfaction of seeing a formal and angry opposition precipitated upon the State without approaching so far to the results they confidently promised themselves. The attempt to dragoon the State into uniformity on this question has put good and bad members of the community on a level, and given those who prefer to drink wine and cider the sense of profit, an advantage which does not belong to them. The law demands so much more than it is possible, or, in the present condition of the universe, desirable to secure, that every man whom it encroaches upon considers it a hardship to be making it for his own. Those whose business is clearly injurious, and could be effectually suppressed under any law grounded in the respect of the people, now flaunt their defiance in the face of the public, and will continue to do so as long as the law makes no discrimination between such objects for which the traffic is carried on. Under these circumstances, it is not strange that the officers pause at the magnitude of the task before them, and wait for the dust they have raised to fall before pressing the campaign any further.

But they will make their deliberation; the difficulties and complications were canvassed beforehand; the absurdities to which any effort to carry it literally into execution would lead were thoroughly understood. The law, nevertheless, was passed in spite of them, and nothing remains for the friends of temperance but to see that it is executed in good faith so far as it can be in the nature of things. It will cause inconvenience in some cases and exasperation in others; but that was known in the beginning, and it would be cowardly to shirk it now. It will at least close the mouths of political prestige, and some village ambitions may be nipped untimely; but the public will be relieved. The State has become tired of having this difficult and serious question made the sport of extreme factions from year to year by the injury alike of the public morals and the peace of the community. It desires that the law in the shape its friends deliberately gave it shall have a fair trial. If it accomplishes its purpose, or gives promise in judicious hands of correspondent benefit, and of the community to regulate its social usages according to its own sense of propriety, while at the same time it administers strict and salutary justice to all who break the peace or endanger the general welfare.

The Cherokee Neutral Lands.

A decision in reference to the rights of the settlers on the Cherokee neutral lands in Kansas has just been made by Hon. J. D. COX, Secretary of the Interior, which settles the vexed question which for a year past has agitated the people located on those lands. Instructions in accordance with Secretary COX's decision have been sent to the proper authorities in Kansas. The following is the opinion:

WASHINGTON, July 6, 1869.

SIR: I have carefully examined your report of the 21st of April relative to the claim of settlers of W. R. LAUGHLIN, Esq., claiming to represent certain settlers on the Cherokee neutral lands, in Kansas, and, in their behalf, asking that the sale of those lands to JOSEPH F. JOY, under a contract with this Department, dated June 5, 1866, be set aside, and that the settlers be allowed to purchase the tracts so settled upon.

I now return Mr. LAUGHLIN's letter, with the request that you will inform Hon. SUMNER CHASE, by whom it was referred, that this Department can recognize no right in the class of settlers represented by Mr. LAUGHLIN to the lands claimed by them, and therefore declines to take the action applied for.

In the same report you bring to my notice the fact that the settlers upon the lands, which have been reported to the appraisers as entitled to receive the pay-money, have not been yet notified to make payment of the appraised value of the tracts awarded them, giving as a reason for not complying with the instructions of the Department of the 25th of December last, in this respect, the want of adequate clerical force in your office to enable the proper comparison of the tract books with the plats of survey.

In order to remove this difficulty, and close the whole business with as little delay as possible, you are authorized to employ the necessary clerical assistance. In the case of contested claims upon land settled upon prior to or at the date of the ratification of the treaty concluded with the Cherokees, July 19, 1866, you will be governed alone by the award of the Commissioners.

J. D. COX,
Secretary of the Interior.

The Times on the Action in the Commons on the Irish Church—Popular Meetings in Support of the Commons.

LONDON, Friday, July 16.

The Times to-day has an editorial on the action taken by the Commons last evening. It says: The bill will go back to the House of Lords in its almost original shape. The Commons have decided that the amendments adopted by the Lords are inconsistent with the bill, and there is no reason to believe the Commons will surrender. If the Lords persist, a collision must ensue, which will result in a popular agitation and a renewal of the measure with a fiercer determination to carry it through. The Times trusts that the Conservative Peers will be content with the presentation of Earl DERBY's protest, which usage allows them, and not to continue their opposition to the bill.

The Last Discussion on the Bill in the Commons—Rejection of Other Lords' Amendments—One Concurred In.

LONDON, Friday, July 16—Midnight.

In the House of Commons, to-night, the consideration of the Irish Church bill was continued.

Mr. GLADSTONE approved of the amendment granting £500,000 for private endowments made prior to 1816, but moved to disagree to the provision continuing the Ulster grants.

Mr. DISRAELI thought that a clear understanding ought to be arrived at. If the policy of the Government had for its object religious equality, it could not be obtained by humiliating the Irish Church, and leading it to compete with the most ancient hierarchy in Christendom. He thought the proposal of the Lords was reasonable.

Sir STAFFORD NORTHCOTE thought Mr. GLADSTONE's proposal would convert the Established Church into a voluntary Missionary Church, contributions for the support of which could only be obtained by stirring up bad feelings against Catholic neighbors. It would be to the advantage of the Protestants to enjoy free and proper endowment, and he asked as an act of justice and expediency that glebes should be left to them.

Sir ROUNDELL PALMER supported the Lords' amendment.

The amendment granting £500,000 for private endowment, was agreed to.

The amendment continuing the Ulster grants was rejected by a vote of 345 to 240. The announcement of the result was received with cheers from the Ministerial benches.

Mr. DISRAELI intimated that it was not necessary for the House to divide on any of the other amendments, except that to clause 68, postponing the disposition of the surplus fund.

Mr. GLADSTONE moved to disagree to, and Mr. DISRAELI supported the Lord's amendment. He thought the Government plans were not matured and ought to be left for future consideration.

Mr. BRIGHT said the distribution of the surplus was a difficult matter. The Government had made a minute inquiry as to the suitable destination of the income arising from the surplus. He had no interest other than any member of the House or contrary to the wishes of the Irish people. Every one acknowledged that the money was the property of the Irish, and ought to be applied to the benefit of Ireland. This plan was open to the last objection. To leave the question open would only pave the way for future embarrassment. He appealed to the House not to put an obstacle in the way of the passage of the bill. The country had confided with the fullest sincerity in the Government desire to make Ireland an integral part of the Kingdom, and her connection with England closer.

The amendment of the House of Lords was then rejected by a vote of 290 against 218. Great cheers greeted the result.

The Irish Church Bill—Earl Derby's Protest.

LONDON, Friday, July 16.

The protest against the Irish Church bill by Earl DERBY is signed by forty-seven of the Peers. It was entered against this bill on the ground that it looked to the severance of Church and State, a project unrecognized by any country in Europe. The adoption of the bill would encourage the designs of those who want such severance extended throughout the United Kingdom, together with the resumption of grants and the confiscation of property. The protest further states that the passage of the bill was a violent stretch of the power of Parliament, which shakes confidence in all property, and especially that resting on Parliamentary title. The protest sets forth the impossibility of putting the disestablished and disendowed Church on the footing and organization of the Catholics, and that this grievance caused the Irish Protestants' alienation from the loyal supporters of the Throne, and a stimulation in the demands of the Catholics.

More Collisions Between Catholics and Orangemen—Catholic Property Destroyed.

LONDON, Friday, July 16.

At Lurgan, in Ireland, on the 12th, an Orange mob was pelted with stones. They retaliated by utterly destroying seventeen houses occupied by the Catholics. The woodwork of the buildings and the furniture were then carried into the street and burned. Order had been restored at the latest advices. At Newry, Orange Hall was attacked by a Catholic party. The occupants fired on their assailants, who were soon driven off, leaving three of their number on the field, badly wounded.

Outrages in Parts of New-Mexico by the Apaches—Mails Captured and Settlers Butchered.

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 16.

The Second Assistant Postmaster-General has received advices from Mr. M. B. DUFFIELD, Special Mail Agent of the Post Office Department, dated La Mesilla, New-Mexico, July 2, in which he stated that when he arrived there he found the citizens much excited in regard to the depredations committed by Apache Indians, who have just captured the two last mails between that place and Tucson, Arizona, it being the third mail captured by them within eight days. They killed two drivers and wounded the third. They have killed many on this route within the last year, and have taken many mails. From La Mesilla to Tucson, a distance of 300 miles, there is not one mile that is safe to travel on account of the Apaches, nor has it been since the organization of Arizona Territory. This section of the country, it is stated, is the worst for Indian outrages, and the fewest number of Indians commit the most depredations.

A subsequent dispatch gives the names of the drivers killed as ESTRAN and REYES, and states that the mails are badly torn up and scattered around, and the mail-bags are gone.

The New-Hampshire Editors, Publishers and Printers—The Annual Meeting.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Friday, July 16.

The annual meeting of the New-Hampshire Publishers, Editors, and Printers' Association, held at the Pemigewasset House last night, was fully attended, representatives being present from all parts of the State. The usual business was transacted, and officers elected for the ensuing year: JOHN M. HILL was reflected President. At the close of the business the members with their ladies and invited guests from other States met in the parlor, and in a brief speech the President introduced the orator of the evening, Rev. T. M. MILLER, of the Portsmouth Chronicle, who delivered an address on "Printers and printing in New-Hampshire." This was followed by a poem by GEORGE H. MARDEN, of the Lowell Courier, the subject of which was the "Trials, troubles and joys of editorial life." At the conclusion of the literary exercises music was provided by Messrs. MORSE and FRENCH, and a social hop was indulged in. This morning the party will proceed to the lake for an excursion on the steamer Lady of the Lake and dinner at Centre Harbor.

CENTRE HARBOR, Friday, July 16.

The New-Hampshire Printers' Association arrived at Centre Harbor at 11 o'clock, with their guests from Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont, numbering one hundred and twenty-five persons and accompanied by Thompson's Cornet Band from Ashland. The party dined at the Senter House by invitation of Colonel HUSTEDES, and will leave for their homes at 1 o'clock, on the steamer Lady of the Lake. The Association will meet at Portsmouth, at the Rye Beach Ocean House and at the Isle of Shoals next year.

The Governor Elect of Virginia at Binghamton—His Reception.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Friday, July 16.

Governor GILBERT C. WALKER, of Virginia, arrived in Binghamton last evening, and was serenaded by the Forty-fourth Regiment Band and a large body of citizens. The Mayor, Common Council and firemen participated. Judge RAMSON BALCOM made the speech of welcome, and Governor WALKER, in his response, spoke of the greeting he had received from his old friends as more flattering to him than any success he had achieved. He claimed that his election in Virginia was a triumph of the policy of General GRANT and the reconstruction measures of Congress over carpet-baggers who had no interest in the State. The demonstration was in no sense political. It is probable the Governor will remain here for several days.

Tornado in Lexington, Mo.—Great Destruction of Property.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Friday, July 16.

A dispatch from Lexington, Mo., of the 16th, says: A terrible tornado has just swept over Lexington. Trees and fences were blown down in every direction, and the streets blocked with the wrecks. Many houses were unroofed and otherwise damaged. Some roofs were carried a distance of one hundred yards. The Caucasian newspaper office is a perfect wreck. Several persons were injured by flying timber, bricks, shutters, &c. No lives were lost so far as heard from. The damages in the city and county cannot be estimated at present. The growing crops were prostrated and the fruit trees destroyed.

The Chicago Commercial Party in Sacramento—Their Reception and Entertainment—Arizona Affairs.

SAN FRANCISCO, Thursday, July 15.

The Chicago commercial party, numbering about one hundred of the principal merchants of Chicago, and including Senator LYMAN TRUMBULL and Governor OGLESBY, of Illinois, arrived at Sacramento yesterday, and were entertained by a number of the leading citizens of that place. Speeches were made by Governor OGLESBY, Senator TRUMBULL and Messrs. JUDD and ASHMUN, of Illinois, and briefly responded to by several prominent Californians. The party sat on PULLMAN's palace train to-day, in order to celebrate the union of Chicago and Sacramento in LONGWORTH's champagne, prepared and labled expressly for the occasion. Governor HAIGHT, of California, Governor OGLESBY, of Illinois, General REDINGTON, of Sacramento, and others responded to the toasts drank during the reception. The Chicago visitors are pleased with Sacramento and what they have seen of California. They will arrive in this city by to-night's boat from Sacramento, and our merchants promise to extend to them a generous welcome.

Arizona advices state that a portion of the Eighth Cavalry attacked a band of Indians near Wickenburg. Nine Indians were killed and one soldier severely wounded.

The Wesleyan University—The Memorial Hall to be Completed—A Liberal Subscription—The Alumni Festival.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Friday, July 16, 1869.

After the Commencement dinner yesterday, C. C. NORTH, Esq., of New-York, proposed to raise $20,000 on the spot to enable the corporation to resume work on the Memorial Chapel. He stated that the Committee appointed for that purpose by the joint Board would pledge themselves to raise $10,000, provided an equal amount be raised at once. At the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. GEORGE J. SENEY, of Brooklyn, responded with a subscription of $2,500. Messrs. DREW and CUTTS, of New-York, and several Boston gentlemen, followed with liberal subscriptions. Hon. D. W. CAMP, of Middletown, gave $500, and the balance was secured by subscriptions of $100 each.

The Alumni of the College have resolved that hereafter the Commencement Concert, held on Wednesday evening, shall be combined with the Alumni Festival, thus adding to the interest of the festival, instead of spoiling it, as has been the case for several years past. To remunerate the Graduating Class, who usually depend upon the proceeds of the concert to meet the expenses of music on Commencement Day, the Alumni will bear a liberal proportion of that expense. Hereafter it is hoped, therefore, that the Alumni Festival will be the most interesting feature of the week, as it should be.

Gale on the Sound—A Brig Wrecked and Four Persons Drowned.

PORTCHESTER, N. Y., Friday, July 16.

About 4 o'clock this afternoon, during the gale, the brig Abby Larrabee, Captain HIRAM CARLISLE, capsized off Captain's Island Light, Long Island Sound, and the Captain's, wife and child and two seamen were drowned. The brig was bound from Bangor to New-York, via Norwalk, Conn., where she had discharged her cargo this morning. The name of the cook drowned was BROWN, of Isleboro, L. I. The name of the other man was unknown. Two seamen and the Captain were saved by members of the American Club of Rocky Neck, in the steamer Nelly White and the tug Gamecock. The Larrabee is 183 tons, new tonnage, was valued at $10,000, and owned in Bangor, Me. She was insured in the Merchants' Company at Bangor for $2,500. Captain lost $600 in money and $600 in personal property. The vessel lies bottom up two miles southeast of Captain's Light, in a dangerous position to vessels tacking.

The gale was one of the severest ever experienced here. One house in East Portchester was blown to pieces, many trees were uprooted, and much damage was done to the fruit and grain crops.

The Crops in the West—Reports from Various Sources.

CHICAGO, Ill., Friday, July 16.

The reports from the middle portions of this State say that last year's corn in cribs is rotting and spoiling. In regard to the present condition of the crops the following summary, as gathered from various sources, may be regarded as a fair one:

"There is an enormous breadth of small grain planted, and had there been no drawback, would have produced an unparalleled crop, so much so that should it be damaged to the extent of over one-half, we shall still secure a good average crop.

"The wheat crop in Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Minnesota is superb, and in excellent condition, and in vast extent beyond precedent. The Winter wheat in Southern Illinois has been mainly cut, and is of an excellent quality, and although the rain has retarded the stacking, there is no cause for alarm. Central Illinois, especially along the Illinois Central, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railways has suffered the most, the rain having fallen in those sections in torrents and deluged the country to such an extent that the use of reaping machines is entirely out of question. The farmers in that section have a tough time of it, wading to their knees in mud trying to save what they can with grain cradles. The cry that comes from that section should not lead any one to infer that such a state of things is general. In Northern Illinois the grain looks very well and promises a good yield. In regard to corn, under the most favorable circumstances it can scarcely be expected to yield more than two-thirds the average crop. But there will be an immense yield of oats."

President Grant and Party at Fortress Monroe—An Enthusiastic Reception.

FORTRESS MONROE, Friday, July 16.

The United States steamer Tallapoosa, from Washington, with President GRANT and family, Postmaster-General CRESWELL, Ex-Secretary BORIE, and a party of ladies and gentlemen, arrived here to-day. They were met on the wharf by General BARRY and staff, and escorted to the Fortress in carriages. The usual salute was fired, the troops of the garrison reviewed, and the officers presented to the President. The party then repaired to headquarters and partook of some refreshments, after which they embarked and sailed at 1 o'clock P. M. for Long Branch.

The Young Men's Christian Association—The International Convention at Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Friday, July 16.

The International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday was engaged in discussing various topics. Resolutions were offered and referred relative to decorating soldiers' graves on Sunday; defining the qualification of delegates to the next Convention, and with reference to the Temperance question, a special Committee of three was raised to whom all resolutions were referred without reading. Morning and evening meetings are being held in the churches and also out of doors. General HOWARD is present and taking an active part.

Large Fire in Belfast, Me.—Loss, $20,000.

BELFAST, Me., Friday, July 16.

Last night a fire broke out in the engine-house of C. P. CARTER & CO.'s ship-yard, destroying the planing-mill, carpenters' shop and blockmakers' shop of L. C. MURCH, and the blacksmith shop of GEORGE E. WEBBER. Considerable ship-building material was lost. The loss will amount to about $20,000. No insurance.

BUFFALO, Friday, July 16.

The two-mile dash at the Driving Park today for $1,500 in gold, between the Canadian horse Rattlesnake and Lady Blanche, was won by Rattlesnake in 3:30. On Tuesday next Volunteer, Bloomer, German Girl and Belle trot for a $1,000 purse.

The Trial of Turner in Macon for Attempting to Pass Counterfeit Money—The Case Against Him.

MACON, Ga., Friday, July 16.

The examination of TURNER, who is charged with attempting to pass counterfeit currency, began to-day before United States Commissioner W. G. MORRILL. The Government concluded its testimony to-day. It was proved that TURNER, in the early part of this year, attempted to pass to a bank in this city a $100 bill, which was rejected as counterfeit; also that he confessed to J. CLARK SWANEY, the editor of the American Union, the principal witness, on the 4th of July, that he had, for fear he would be killed and the notes found on his person, given $1,800 in counterfeit notes to MARION HARRIS, to be returned to him when they got home. It was proved that $800 in counterfeits on the First National Bank of Jersey were found on the person of this woman in Atlanta, which were introduced, as also a letter from TURNER to the woman, found at the same time. The Court adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

Fire at Cleveland—Loaded Freight Cars Burned—Loss $60,000.

CLEVELAND, Friday, July 16.

A fire last night, at the depot of the Erie and Atlantic and Great Western Railroad, in this city, destroyed twenty or thirty cars loaded with crude oil and coal oil, said to belong to ROCKEFELLER, ANDREWS & FLAGLER, CLARK, PAYNE & CO., CRITCHLEY, FAWCETT & CO., for Eastern parties. The total loss is between $50,000 and $60,000; little insurance, if any. The railroad loss is heavy. The cause of the fire was probably from a lamp in the hands of the train inspector.

SOUTH CAROLINA FINANCIALLY.

What New-York is Doing for the Material Interests of the State.

Interesting Statement from Facts Furnished by Attorney-General D. H. Chamberlain.

The poverty and helplessness in which the late war left the Southern States has never been fully understood by a large majority of the people of the North. Their material condition was utterly deplorable. Fortunes had been lost, business interests ruined, railroads destroyed, fields had remained unplanted, provisions were far from plenty and money was not to be had. The temper of the people, too, was melancholy and not at all favorable to effort or enterprise. They were depressed by the failure of their political hopes and looked forward to the future with anything but cheerful or confident expectations. In fact, their situation was less encouraging than that of the settlers of a new country, for, in addition to their poverty, they seemed without ambition to rise from it.

This state of things, however, could not be otherwise than temporary. It was the natural consequence of a long and determined conflict, where one of the parties is eventually compelled to yield to the authority of the other. The necessity of improving their condition was urgent, and whether they finally accepted their status quo or not, the Southern people very soon commenced building and planting as far as they were able to provide for their immediate wants. In addition, considerable Northern capital found its way to the South, oftentimes to its great profit; old business relations were resumed; permanent Governments were established, and now, five years after the war, it may be safely said that those States are fairly on the way of recovery from their unhappy condition.

The State which appears to have the best start and the steadiest progress, as yet, is South Carolina. While she suffered fully as much, if not more, than any other of the Southern States, her prospects to-day are more satisfactory. The reason or secret of this is the excellent management of her finances. The great want of the States always has been and still is money. They had none at the close of the war, and they have but little now, which alludes mainly for the necessaries of life. In this respect South Carolina is more fortunate than the rest, and the history of her financial reconstruction is of more than ordinary interest, especially as it shows how materially New-York City has aided her and what confidence capital has in the ultimate prosperity of the entire South.

In 1868, immediately after the war, the public debt of South Carolina was about $5,400,000, and her State securities were worth but twenty-five cents on every dollar. This debt, aside from the large amount of securities held in the State, was owed to Europe, where, in the days of King Cotton, the South made its principal negotiations. When the Provisional Government of President JOHNSON was established and the people had elected a Governor and Legislature of their own, the first thing to be provided was money enough, at least to pay the State Government's expenses. The Legislature accordingly authorized the Treasurer to issue paper currency to the amount of about $250,000, which should be a legal circulating medium in the State. These issues were called "bills receivable," and were as good as "greenbacks" with the people. Soon after, the Provisional Government gave way to the regular Government authorized by the Reconstruction laws of Congress, a new Constitution was framed, new men were elected to office and a new policy adopted. The old governing class of South Carolina was replaced by a new element, composed largely of Northern men and the emancipated blacks. This reconstructed State Government, feeling a like necessity with the Provisional Government, also issued "bills receivable," upon the same basis as the first issue, but the people—the old inhabitants—would have nothing to do with them. They claimed that the Legislature itself was "unconstitutional," and all its acts illegal. With them the second issue of "bills receivable" was spurious, and the newspapers throughout the State denied the validity even of the bonds on which the Treasurer was attempting to negotiate loans—stigmatizing them as "bayonet" and "scalawag" bonds. So little faith did a majority of the people have in them, that their value, a little after the new Government came into power, was sixty per cent. below par.

Under this condition of things the State authorities were greatly embarrassed, it being difficult to pay even the ordinary expenses of carrying on the Government, and there was but little money in the State. How to raise funds was the important question. It was finally solved.

About a year and a half ago, in the early Spring of 1868, a young man of considerable experience in financial matters in New-York went to South Carolina with no special purpose other than to note matters and prospects there. It happened that the Attorney-General of the State, D. H. CHAMBERLAIN, Esq., also a young man of much ability and promise, had formerly known this gentleman from New-York, and being informed of his association with moneyed projects and his success in them, he proposed to him there to undertake the raising of funds for the Government of South Carolina. After due deliberation the gentleman consented to the proposition, and by act of the next and special session of the Legislature, he was appointed the financial agent of the State, being the unanimous choice of the Governor, Treasurer and Attorney-General. Coming at once to this City, he entered upon his duties. The first object to be attained was to create confidence in South Carolina securities, which at that time were valued at only forty cents on the dollar. In the State the demand for them was slight, and here they actually went begging on the street.

The reason for this was that the capitalists of the City had little faith in the people of the State, feared repudiation and consequently avoided them. The agent, however, was well known in moneyed circles, which proved to be of great advantage to him. He himself had unlimited confidence in the honor of South Carolina, its officers and Legislature. He represented to bankers and capitalists that their discredit of the securities of that State was unfounded, and that he himself proposed to invest in the bonds, which he did to a very considerable amount. Having confidence in his own judgment, his friends followed his example; capitalists and others bought up the bonds, and in the course of six months there were hardly any in the market for sale. Indeed it was difficult to fill any large orders for these bonds.

The agent thus in a very short time was able to negotiate loans with these bonds, and commenced sending money to the Treasurer of South Carolina to his and the Government's unbounded satisfaction. But a few months passed before the Treasurer called in all the "bills receivable," both of the first and second issues, returning "greenbacks" in their place, and also paid off the floating debt. The people of the State finding that good money was becoming more plenty and that the new Government was succeeding well, ceased their objections to the "bayonet bonds," and commenced to invest in them, preferring them to United States Government bonds; and the so-called spurious bills were readily circulated before they were taken in.

By the excellent, and it may be said, remarkable management of this financial agent, the South Carolina bonds and securities are fast approaching a par value. He also has paid the interest on the bonds promptly, has met every State obligation satisfactorily, and financially prospered South Carolina. The effect upon the State has been highly gratifying, and already the new Government is ceasing to be an object of abuse.

Furthermore, South Carolina has steered clear of the whirlpool which has well-nigh swamped one or two of the other Southern States. She has steadily refused to aid railroads. North Carolina and Tennessee have increased their debts immensely by their railroad subsidies and loans, and have materially injured their financial prospects.

Then, South Carolina is beginning to pay taxes. The levy is $1,200,000, and the people are meeting it. Their crop of cotton last year sold for $30,000,000, and the forthcoming crop is large and thus far free from the caterpillar. Lastly, political agitations are quieting and confidence is growing in the permanence of the present order of things. On the whole, and when compared with other States, South Carolina is recovering from the effects of the war with a cheering steadiness and certainty, and it is gratifying to find that New-York City and her capitalists are contributing so materially to the work of restoring the country.

BROOME COUNTY.

The Village of Binghamton—Its Property—Political Prospects—Candidates.

From an Occasional Correspondent.

BINGHAMTON, Monday, July 12, 1869.

This morning's train brought me to this beautiful little city. I have spent a portion of the day driving through its well-shaded streets and visiting some of the many attractive places within its neighborhood. The Asylum for the Reformation of Inebriates—a State charity—is situated on a small hill about one mile and a half across the Susquehanna River. Viewed from the city it is a fine edifice of whitish stone, with two broad wings, and capable of accommodating more drunkards than all the gin mills in the State ought to be permitted to make. Many have found the way there, and hundreds have been permanently reformed under its excellent management. If has fully justified the highest hopes of its philanthropic projectors.

Manufactories of various kinds, to a considerable extent, are carried on here, and enterprise and thrift are observable on every hand. The public spirit which has recently brought into the city, and conveyed through all its streets and by-ways a beautiful supply of pure water, and which is requiring the erection of not less than 200 substantial buildings this Summer, for churches, stores, shops and dwellings, (some of them of the finest character,) is one that will make the city still more prosperous and wealthy.

In our drive we passed the beautiful residence of the late DANIEL S. DICKINSON, who was formerly an honored leader among the Democracy of the State, and always an able, eloquent, dignified and courteous gentleman. His political fortunes were varied. At one time the lawgiver to his party in the State, its Representative in the Senate of the United States, and its candidate for the Presidency; at another, abandoned by all except a few personal friends, he finally left his party when it ceased to be patriotic, at the beginning of the late war, and joined the Republicans, by whom he was trusted and honored to the day of his death. He always retained the confidence and respect of his neighbors. But Mr. DICKINSON has not without peers and competitors in Binghamton. JOHN A. COLLIER, now very old, still lives here, and though withdrawn from active participation in public affairs is honored and respected for his ability and statesmanship. He was formerly a Whig leader. GILES W. HOTCHKISS, member of the present Congress from this district, and RAMSON RALCOM, Justice of the Supreme Court of the State, both reside here, and are statesmen and jurists of wide repute and commanding ability. Though still in middle life they have both successfully crossed lances with DICKINSON and COLLIER, and many incidents and anecdotes are told thereof.

This Senatorial District is composed of the Counties of Broome, Tioga and Tompkins. I do not hear of but two candidates on the Republican side for Senator. They are Mr. CHAPMAN, the present incumbent, who lives here, and Mr. CHATFIELD, of Tioga. Each county is entitled to six delegates in the nominating Convention, and if each of the candidates should carry his own county, which is to be taken almost as a matter of course, the delegates from the County of Tompkins will make the choice. I do not hear what their inclinations are. It is not improbable, however, that other candidates may yet come forward to contest the ground in all the counties. But at present there does not appear to be but the two. The district is largely Republican, and there is no doubt of the election of a Senator of that political faith. Mr. ELY is a candidate for reflection to the Assembly. His constituents speak well of his ability and fidelity. He is an earnest and zealous Republican, and will probably be returned. CHEMUNG.

TORNADO IN MINNESOTA.

Several Houses Blown Down, and Much Property Destroyed—Several Persons Fatally Injured.

Correspondence of the St. Paul Pioneer.

SAUK CENTRE, Minn., Saturday, July 10, 1869.

One of the most fearful tornadoes that has visited our region for many a day, occurred last night, (Friday.) In town things of a loose and movable nature were scattered about promiscuously. Chimneys were blown down, trees uprooted, roofs blown off, lumber piles distributed, fences blown down, &c.

The more noticeable feature of the storm (in town) was the unroofing of the Episcopal Church, which was partially finished. The roof was blown off from the entire edifice, and the timbers were blown to the distance of from forty to sixty feet. The damage will probably amount to $1,000 or more. No lives were lost.

In the town of Raymond, on the extreme west of this county, the storm was more furious than here. It came from a southwesterly direction, and was accompanied with thunder, lightning and rain. It commenced about 1 o'clock A. M., and was at its extremest fury at about 2, during which time the lightning was nearly incessant.

A house in Raymond, owned and occupied by a Mr. RICHARD RICHARDSON, a well-to-do farmer, was completely destroyed. This house was what was called a block-house 16 by 24, with the corners dove-tailed together, and pinned at the corners and in the centre with oak pins, two inches in diameter. There were ten persons in the house at the time, and all were more or less injured. The details, so far as I have been able to learn them, are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. RICHARDSON, with one child of eighteen months, were sleeping in a room in the northwest corner of the building; the balance of the family and visitors were up stairs.

Almost instantly the building was unroofed, and the logs of the building, with the inmates of the chambers, went flying over the prairie. The oldest son, JOHN, 21 or 22 years of age, was blown thirty-five rods from the house. He was badly bruised externally, and received severe internal injuries. The second son, GEORGE, 13 years of age, was blown thirty rods, had his right leg broken, and was very badly bruised. The third son, WILLIE, 3 years old, was carried twenty rods, and was picked up afterward, dead, and fearfully mangled. Miss ANNA WILSON, who was teaching school in the district, and at the time was up stairs, was carried thirty-seven rods, into a wheat field, and when found was surrounded with trunks, barrels, boxes, &c., from the lower floor. She was seriously injured internally, and may not recover.

Two small children sleeping together up stairs, were wound together in their blankets by the force of the wind, and (strange as it may appear) carried a mile or more of feet from the building, right in the direction from which the wind came, (southwest,) and when found were unharmed. Mrs. RICHARDSON, during all the time of the tornado, sat in her bed holding a child of 18 months in her arms. She was scratched somewhat about the face and neck, but otherwise received no injury. The child was unharmed. Mr. RICHARDSON was not even scratched. A young man by the name of LIBERTY BAYMOND, who had stopped over night, was blown thirty-six rods, and had both legs, one arm and his neck broken.

The storm, coming from the southwest, struck the building on the corner, and leveled everything to the ground, excepting some logs on the northwest corner, behind which stood the bed of Mr. and Mrs. RICHARDSON. Aside from these not a log could be found within from twenty to forty feet from their former resting place. Of everything up stairs, excepting the bedies, not a thing, not even a bedstead or a piece of cue, could be found within one mile of the house. Physicians were on hand at an early hour, but the case of some of the sufferers is hopeless. In Pope County a frame dwelling-house of Mr. GEORGE ROCKWELL was blown entirely down. Mr. ROCKWELL was knocked senseless by the flying timbers, and Mrs. ROCKWELL had her collar bone broken. She, supposing her husband killed, went for the neighbors and lost her way in the darkness. The injury to either Mr. or Mrs. ROCKWELL is comparatively slight.

Two log buildings belonging respectively to HARMON and SON were both blown flat to the ground. Their children were blown from twenty to thirty rods, but without serious injury, so far as heard from. In that neighborhood five buildings were blown flat, and ten others were unroofed or otherwise seriously injured. There were no other lives lost so far as heard from at present.

The course of the storm seemed to be from southwest to northeast, and its main fury was in a tract of about fifty rods. At Grove Lake, where the storm passed through the timber, the timber was laid in a swath as though a reaper had been through it—a strip at that place about thirty rods in width. We expect of course to hear of other casualties. The number of rods [illegible] Association Building, Dedication in San Francisco.

From the San Francisco Chronicle, July 7.

After attending the fireworks on Monday evening, Mr. SEWARD accompanied Mayor McCOPPIN to the Pacific Club, where he was received by a large party, and partook of an elegant and sumptuous supper, which had been prepared for the occasion. Yesterday, on the invitation of Captain S. CARD, Mr. SEWARD and his party took a trip about the bay on board the T. W. Wright. They started at 1 o'clock from Pacific-street wharf and ran up to Hunter's Point and visited the Dry Dock. Mr. SEWARD expressing himself most pleased with the latter. Thence along the city front as far as Fort Point and the Golden Gate; thence to Alcatraz and back to the landing place. Mr. SEWARD received several calls during the evening, among them the following: Bishop KIP, of Grace Church; Ode Bedelehen, of the Russian-American Telegraph Exploring Expedition; S. B. Axtell, A. Williams, H. P. Wabeen, Charles James, A. A. Cohen, S. S. Marshall, of Illinois; J. R. Crockett, General Ord, Fung Tang, E. Hart Hyatt, Dr. Boedder, J. C. Zabriskie, L. J. Ousley, M. D., United States Consul at Buchareest, E. Gerrard and Don Godoy, Mexican Consul. The last named gentleman had a very pleasant interview, declaring his reliance to Mr. SEWARD's anticipated visit to Mexico. In the afternoon Mr. SEWARD dined with General ORD, where he was met by a select party of friends, and indulged in the Cordelia Ball at about 8 o'clock. We hear it is Mr. SEWARD's intention to visit some of the public buildings and institutions of the city to-day. He will be accompanied by Mayor McCOPPIN and some other gentlemen.

The Alta of this morning says: It is the intention of Hon. W. H. SEWARD to go to Victoria and Sitka in about a week. After returning to this city, from his Northern trip, Mr. SEWARD will go hence to Los Angeles and San Diego, at which latter port he will embark in a downward-bound steamer of the Pacific Mail Company, which will touch at San Diego for this purpose, and he will then go to Mazanillo. Passing through the States of Colima, Guadalajara, &c., Mr. SEWARD will reach the City of Mexico, and after spending some time there, will proceed to Vera Cruz, and thence by steamer to New-York. For his transit through Mexico, from Mazanillo to Vera Cruz, the Mexican government will make necessary special arrangements, such courtesy being extended to the distinguished Ex-Secretary last Autumn. In this journey Mr. SEWARD will be accompanied only by his own family party.

George Peabody at Home—The State of his Health—His Proposed Trip South.

From the Boston Journal, July 14.

Mr. GEORGE PEABODY, the "rich London banker," who has gained a world-wide reputation by reason of his princely generosity and noble deeds of philanthropy on both sides of the Atlantic, has returned to his native State, his health, unhappily, much impaired, after making a brief sojourn at the residence of his nephew, Mr. GEORGE PEABODY RUSSELL, on Lafayette-street, Salem, previous to his seeking a more salubrious climate.

Mr. PEABODY's last active life in business has at last begun to fall on his vigorous constitution, and he is now so feeble as to be unable to make much active exertion, and for the greater part occupies his room, and does not converse more than he is absolutely obliged, a bronchial difficulty rendering conversation extremely difficult, as well as prejudicial to his recovery. In fine weather he rides out for a short distance, and on Monday he left for Saratoga, where he is at for a short time in contemplation of a scene his generosity had created. The exertion, however, seemed more than his strength would warrant, and on Tuesday he was quite feeble. There are no visible evidences of disease, but merely a loss of vitality; and rest, with a change of climate, are prescribed by his physician. It is his intention to leave Salem next Saturday evening for Boston, where he will pass the Sabbath at the residence of Hon. S. T. DANA. Sabbath evening he will take the boat for New-York. He will go through Philadelphia and Baltimore, resting and visiting his friends at each place, and will probably arrive at White Sulphur Springs, Va., about the last of July, where he will remain for a time, in hopes to restore his shattered health. He is as genial and cheerful as he has been for years, and apparently as keenly as ever enjoys the society of his friends. He intends, if possible, to be present this afternoon at the dedication of the Institute at Danvers. He was seventy-four years of age last February. He is said to have lost sixty pounds of flesh during the past year, but he is not by any means a thin man now.

The Reported Poisoning of the Crew of the Southern Cross.

From the Boston Traveller, July 15.

A telegraph dispatch, published in another column, reports that the ship Southern Cross, while at Manilla, May 19, had all her crew, except the Captain and officers, poisoned, and that there was intense excitement in consequence. This news was brought to San Francisco by a sailor, who was sent thence by telegraph, without any particulars. It is not known whether the seamen died, but we infer that such was the fact from the report of excitement. How the Captain and officers escaped is easily accounted for, because their food is generally prepared on a separate from that of the men.

But as the cook is included among the victims, it seems to follow that some person from the shore may have poisoned the sailors' food, while the cook was assisting the steward to wait on the cabin. All this, however, is mere supposition, and may be incorrect. We have received a date from Manilla of June 3, which reported the ship Flostering there, but no allusion was made to the Southern Cross, or anything connected with her. She is owned by Messrs. BAKER & MORRILL, of this city, is a new vessel on her first voyage, and is commanded by Captain HUGHES. The crew which shipped in her here, excepting the officers, probably all left her in San Francisco, where she, of course, shipped another crew under different articles. San Francisco is considered a conservative port, hence a crew shipped there for Manilla would be under foreign articles.

The owners of the Southern Cross have not received any intelligence from their ship, nor is there any news from her in this city that we can ascertain.

THE FENIAN FUNDS.

Suit Against Belmont & Co. for the Recovery of $300,000 Held in Trust by Them.

In the suit of O'MAHONY vs. BELMONT, now pending in the Superior Court of this City, is developed one of the many financial phases which the Fenian movement in its progress has assumed. During the last Presidential canvass it will be remembered that the stump speakers of the "Irish Republicans" frequently made it a point against the Democratic Party that their great High Priest, AUGUST BELMONT, had received $20,000 of the Fenian funds, to be transmitted to Europe for the benefit of the cause of Ireland, but which sum never reached the proper agents on other side. It was stated at the time that the funds had been demanded by those properly controlling them here, but that Mr. BELMONT had refused to pay over the amount, alleging, as the ground of his refusal, that the money was forwarded for the purpose of making war on a friendly Government with which the United States was at peace. The matter has finally reached the Courts, in the form of a proceeding to appoint a receiver, pending the litigation to recover the money. Judge McCUNN has granted the motion appointing THOMAS J. BARR as such receiver, and setting forth the grounds therefor in the following opinion:

"This was a motion for a receiver to take charge of the moneys now admitted to be in the hands of the defendants, Belmont & Co. It appears from the papers that Mr. O'MAHONY, the plaintiff, in September, last, deposited with Messrs. AUGUST BELMONT & Co. nearly $300,000 in gold, their giving to him at the same time their several bills of exchange against the same, all addressed to N. M. ROTHSCHILDS & SONS, London. The bills were made payable to order of one JOHN O'LEARY. O'MAHONY sent the bills to O'LEARY and he (O'MAHONY) swears that they never reached O'LEARY's hands. He further says and swears that O'LEARY was merely his agent, and that O'MAHONY was the sole owner of the gold and bills at exchange in question. After lapse of nearly five years, he now tenders the bond required by statute, and claims the original deposit made with Messrs. Belmont & Co. He is clearly of opinion that he is entitled to the relief he seeks. The evidence shows about O'Mahony depositing the money with Belmont & Co., and there is little doubt about the gold being in their hands or under their control. This being so, I hold that he is entitled to a receiver of the money, on his complying with the requisite in such case made and provided. The order of the Court is that Thomas J. Barr be appointed receiver of the Court in this case, to take possession of the moneys, after executing the proper bonds in the premises."

Proposals for Water Pipe—Opening of Bids by the Croton Board.

At the last meeting of the Croton Aqueduct Board, on Thursday, the following proposals for supplying articles advertised for were received and opened: For iron pipes, R. F. STARR, Agent Camden Iron Works, Mo., per foot for 4-inch, $1 40 for 6-inch, and $2 05 for 12-inch; for branch pipes, $60 per ton; for step-cock boxes and covers, $61 per ton; and for special castings, $61 per hundred.

McKINLEY & LENACK—For step-cock boxes and covers, $60 per ton; for special castings, same figure.

E. W. CORDIT—For branch pipes, $65 per ton; for step-cock boxes and covers, $60; and for special castings, $65 per ton.

R. D. COBB, Manager New-Jersey Foundry—For 12-inch pipe, $1 95 6-10; for 6-inch, $1 01 6-10; for 4-inch, 89½c. per foot; for branch pipes, $74 per ton.

R. D. WOOD & Co.—For 12-inch pipe, $2 01; for 6-inch, $1 97; for 4-inch, 90c. per foot; for branch pipes, $69 per ton; for special castings, one figure; and for step-cock boxes and covers, $67 per ton.

It will be noticed that some of the bidders made proposals only for portions of the materials advertised for by the Croton Aqueduct Department.

Work on the new Croton Aqueduct at Kent, Putnam County, is progressing favorably, a full [illegible] Commissioners with Mr. HARVEY, of Tarrytown, whereby that gentleman undertook to become the purchaser of the Hempstead Plains, at $62 per acre, shall be ratified or not. The election will doubtless be an exciting and interesting one. The readers of the TIMES are aware that another offer for the purchase of the Plains has been made, and that Mr. A. T. STEWART is the gentleman making it. The non-ratification of the agreement entered into with Mr. HARVEY will be instrumental in declaring if is to be the will of the voters that Mr. STEWART should become the purchaser. There is a numerous party among the Hempstead people, however, who urge the indescretion of the contract with Mr. HARVEY, for the reason that, they assert, the voters are in honor bound to act as if the premises as if that gentleman were the only person who had made an offer of purchase; that the sale of the Plains having been regularly decided on, and an agreement made with Mr. HARVEY long before Mr. STEWART's offer was submitted, the first-named gentleman is entitled to become the purchaser, provided the terms of the agreement, independently of any consideration as to subsequent offers, are such as meet the wishes of the people. On the other hand, there is another, and a larger party, who affirm that the matter is to be considered simply with regard to the pecuniary interests of the town; that the very fact of submitting to the people the question, whether or not the agreement with Mr. HARVEY should be ratified, left open the whole issue, and that voters should take into consideration everything of material interest affecting the prospective benefits to arise from the sale, in determining the question of ratification. The indices are that this latter view will prevail; or, in other words, that the Commissioners will be virtually instructed to enter into an agreement with Mr. STEWART for the purchase of the Plains according to the terms of his offer. The fact that the acceptance of Mr. STEWART's proposition will turn into the town treasury nearly $100,000 more (and that in cash) than would accrue from the sale to Mr. HARVEY, will, doubtless, have much to do with determining the result of the election to-day. Mr. HARVEY offers $62 per acre, one-half the purchase money to remain on bond and mortgage, while Mr. STEWART proposed to purchase the land to be sold at the rate of $65 per acre. But a very important consideration, now being pressed upon the attention of the freeholders, is that nothing definite can be ascertained as to what use Mr. HARVEY intends to devote the land, should he become the purchaser; or if Mr. STEWART, in his letter to the editor of the Hempstead Sentinel, settles this question conclusively. Should the Plains become his property, he is pledged to "open them, by constructing extensive public roads, laying out the lands in parcels for sale to actual settlers, and erecting attractive buildings and restaurants, so that the city may speedily be covered by a population desirable as neighbors, taxpayers and citizens." This pledge, thus publicly given, added to the inducement of cash payment, and the still further consideration that the town will gain $97,000 by accepting Mr. STEWART's proposition, will, it may be safely prophesied, swell the vote for non-ratification of the agreement with Mr. HARVEY, and finally eventuate in making Mr. STEWART the purchaser of the Plains. There exists an erroneous impression in some minds as to the condition of these lands in point of altitude. Many suppose them to be mere swamps, or marshes, and that they are undesirable, on that account, either for residence or agricultural purposes. This is a mistake. They are not, it is true, high land, but there are slight depressions here and there; but, except in one small portion, there is neither swamp nor morass. Neither are they, as some assert, sand plains and barrens. The soil is not in a state of fertility, nor is it tested and washed by the winds. They are susceptible of high culture, and may be made to yield as profitable crops as can be found on any part of Long Island. Should Mr. STEWART become their purchaser, we may look for their speedy transformation from an unfruitful, uninhabited waste, into the site of a town, thriving, and prosperous in population. We subjoin the following communication, which bears upon the contemplated sale of the lands in question:

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Being a resident of the town of Hempstead, I have not been an active participant in the agitation of the question of the Plain lands. About fifteen years ago, B. HEDRICKSON, Esq., was the first man that took a prominent part in regard to the sale of this land; I may say he was almost alone in the movement. At that time it was considered that any man who favored selling the Plains was unfit for any office in the town. Mr. HEDRICKSON was at that time a Justice of the Peace, and at the expiration of his term, he was again put in nomination, and was beaten by 200 majority on account of the stand he had taken in regard to the sale of the lands. He still used all his endeavors to bring about the sale, however, and was much abused therefor from time to time. Nevertheless he did not give up the project. In 1858 he got a resolution introduced at the annual town meeting, authorizing the setting apart of ten acres of the Plains for a cemetery for the town, and the selling of as much more of the lands as were necessary to finish and improve the same. He then had a law passed making the receivers of the town moneys, ex-officio appointed one of the Commissioners to negotiate the sale. The beautiful Greenfield Cemetery to the north of the village of Greenfield, (which, by the way, would have been laid out but for these lands,) is a more common talk among people that HEDRICKSON would be mobbed if he attempted to carry out a law, but he did so at cost, and has nothing about it. Afterward, in 1859, he was the means of getting an act passed calling a special town meeting, whereby five hundred of the inhabitants should petition the Supervisors to have a vote taken on the question of the lands. At the first special meeting, the proposition was largely voted down. At the second meeting it was again rejected, and also at a third meeting; but the vote was now more favorable. HEDRICKSON was encouraged. A fourth special meeting was called, in 1867, and the vote was determined in favor of selling. If any man deserves credit for obtaining this vote it is BERNARDUS HEDRICKSON, who finally accomplished what he several years before undertook. HEMPSTEAD.

Coroners' Cases.

Coroner SCHIRMER commenced an inquest yesterday in the case of Miss MARGARET CARLISLE, late of No. 263 West Twelfth-street, whose death from the kick of a horse, received on the 26th ult., has already been noticed. JOHN DEMAREST, of Fort Lee, testified that he overtook Miss CARLISLE and gave her a seat in his carriage while on the way to the ferry-boat Leslie at Weehawken. After getting on board, Miss CARLISLE left the carriage and entered the cabin, coming back as the steamer neared the dock at Forty-second-street. As she passed the phaeton of Judge PHELPS, of Tenafly, the deponent drew her skirts together to avoid the muddy wheels, when one of the horses kicked her in the side and knocked her down, she subsequently receiving a wound on the temple, leg and hand. The witness saw no effort on the part of the driver to keep the horses in check. Judge PHELPS offered to pay the expenses attending Miss CARLISLE's illness, and did send the trustees of St. Luke's Hospital a check for $100. The physicians who attended the deceased, and made the post-mortem examination, testified that death had resulted from inflammation of the brain. Owing to the absence of Judge PHELPS the case was laid over until Tuesday. It appears that Miss CARLISLE was boarding in Pleasant Valley, and made a trip to and from her school in Thirteenth-street every day.

Coroner FLYNN will hold an inquest at the Morgue over the remains of RICHARD TOMPKINS, aged 42, and Captain of a lighter, who was injured by a hogshead of sugar falling upon him at Pier No. 2, East River, a few days ago.

An inquest was held yesterday by Coroner FLYNN, at No. 344 West Twenty-fourth-street, over the remains of HUGH CRAWFORD, who was drowned at the foot of West Seventeenth-street. Verdict in accordance.

ANDREW SPOUR, aged 42, and engineer at FRICH's brewery, in West Tenth-street, who was caught in the fly-wheel and had his skull fractured, died yesterday in Bellevue Hospital. Coroner FLYNN will hold an inquest.

Mrs. FIEDLER, residing on the third floor of premises No. 129 West Eighteenth-street, opened one of her windows yesterday morning for the purpose of driving out the flies. While so engaged, her little boy CHARLES, aged 3 years, lost his balance from a chair and fell into the street, when he sustained a fracture of the skull. Death subsequently ensued, and Coroner FLYNN was notified to hold an inquest.

Greenpoint Presbyterian Church.

The temporary house of worship of the Greenpoint Presbyterian Church is now completed, and will be opened to-morrow. There will be preaching services at 10:30 A. M., by Rev. SAMUEL S. ALEXANDER, D.D., of New-York, and a dedication sermon at 3 P. M., by Rev. W. E. LEE, of Brooklyn. The public are cordially invited. Sunday School at 2 o'clock P. M. Friends of the cause, and all children not connected with other schools, are earnestly requested to attend.

McCLELLAND-DOWLING CASE.

Refusing Affidavits Read—The Argument Postponed.

This case came before Judge CARDOZO, of the Supreme Court, again yesterday, pursuant to adjournment. Mr. McCLELLAND, who acted as counsel in his own case, read several affidavits, four of which were made by himself. He denied stand emphatically under oath the various charges which, by the affidavits of Justice DOWLING and others, are alleged against him. All these parts of his affidavits in which he set forth new matter, and undertaken to create new issues between himself and DOWLING were not allowed by the Court to be read. Mr. McCLELLAND was very persistent at first in claiming a right to read all he had committed to paper and swore to.

Judge CARDOZO reminded the relator that on the day when the other papers were read, that he, McCLELLAND, had asked of the Court, as a special favor, to be allowed to put in further affidavits to refute some of the allegations made by Judge DOWLING and his witnesses; that thereupon the Court granted the motion, at the same time admonishing the relator that any further affidavits on his part must be strictly in rebuttal; that under no circumstances could he be allowed to go into new matter. And you, said the Judge, "must recollect that this was granted to you."

Mr. McCLELLAND said he did recollect what was said upon that occasion, but he felt now as though there were some other matters that ought to be gone into. He then continued at some length to explain how it happened that this case was first before his Honor Judge CARDOZO, instead of before Judge SUTHERLAND. He had no doubt, however, he find with the change that had been made in that respect.

Mr. McCLELLAND read the testimony of Assistant District-Attorney R. C. HUTCHINGS, taken before R. C. BRAHAM, Esq., pursuant to an order of the Court. This witness said he remembered the trial of James BRIGHT, (the General Sessions for rape, in which one Ann McMulligan was complainant; the trial took place June 29, 1869; that he recollected that McClelland spoke to him on that day, saying that he was interested in the trial of that cause, on the part of the complainant; he also remembered that McClelland and by him during the trial; Bright was convicted; witness also remembered the trial of Joseph Hayes; the trial took place July 1, 1869; Hayes was acquitted—his defence being an alibi; it is occasionally the custom for complainants to employ private counsel in the Court of General Sessions; McClelland spoke to witness in regard to the case of Hayes.

Bernard McQuade, the other witness whose testimony was taken before the referee, said that he was an officer of the Court of General Sessions; that Ann McMulligan was confined as complainant in a rape case in the Home of Detention; that she often expressed a desire to have counsel of her own; that deponent informed her that it was not necessary—the District-Attorney would attend to her case; that after this information she still persisted that she wanted counsel; that when the trial came on deponent informed the first lawyer he met after entering the Court-room, who was James D. McClelland; that the latter consulted with her, and John McMulligan subsequently informed deponent that he had retained him as counsel; that afterward the woman was about to be re-committed to the House of Detention to await the trial of Hayes, when, through the efforts of McClelland, she was allowed to go at large.

Mr. CLELLAND read affidavits made by himself, in which he contradicts in every substantial particular the allegations of CHRISTIANA HOGE, who charged him with taking a $10 fee and then absenting himself from Court on the day of her trial. He says he never had any consultation with her, never took any fee from her, and never saw the woman until after her trial and conviction, and after she had been sent to the Penitentiary. Mr. Clelland also says that the affidavit of JAMES E. COOPER, Warden of the City Prison, read by Judge DOWLING's counsel—and already alluded to in our columns—is not a full and complete statement of the facts to which that affidavit alludes.

Anthony M. Sutelle swears that on the 24th of June, 1869, he was in the Court of General Sessions, where he was accosted by James D. McClelland, and asked to step outside in the lobby of the Court, that a man desired to engage his services in the prosecution of a rape case, and that he, the said McClelland, desired this deponent to be present at the interview; that he was about to excuse; that this deponent cheerfully complied with said McClelland's request, and accompanied him outside to the lobby; that McClelland there told this deponent, in the presence of a man whom this deponent is informed and believes to be John McMulligan, "This man wants me to prosecute a rape case in which his wife is complainant," or words to that effect; that he told said McMulligan that there was hardly any necessity for him to employ any counsel for the prosecution of the case; that McClelland accepted a fee after full explanation that all he could do would be to urge the District-Attorney to prosecute the case; that in visiting the Island Warden Fitch said he had received secret instructions in relation to the case, and on McClelland being brought face to face with the woman who in alleged to have paid him $10, she utterly failed to identify him as the man.

The reading of the affidavits on the part of the relator being concluded, Mr. GRAHAM, counsel for Justice DOWLING, said he would ask the permission of the Court to put in one or two more brief affidavits. He wished to get a further affidavit from Justice DOWLING, and one from Mr. JOHNSON, Clerk of the Court.

Mr. McCLELLAND said he would give counsel notice that he would insist upon the additional affidavits being strictly in rebuttal.

Judge CARDOZO ruled that it must be so understood.

Mr. GRAHAM remarked that one reason why he asked this was so that if such of the affidavits as the relator had permission to be read should be spread out in the reported the City of the next day, it would not appear that he, as counsel for the relator, let the matter pass in silence, and without an effort at a denial of false charges.

Judge CARDOZO replied that he could not help what the newspapers said; he would only do his duty in the administration of the law as he understood it.

After some further unimportant discussion it was arranged that Mr. GRAHAM might put in the additional affidavits mentioned by him, and the further hearing was postponed to Monday morning next.

Central Park—The New Avenue to White Plains—Music on the Mall To-day.

Central Park-avenue, the new boulevard, extending from White Plains downward, through Westchester County to the Park, is being rapidly graded, the work being commenced at the upper end. It is anticipated that by the end of the coming week about five miles of the "new way" will be ready for public travel. The bridge over the Bronx River is to be widened and raised, to correspond with the changes of the road at that point. When fully completed, this new boulevard will afford facilities for a continuous drive, on a level road, from Forty-ninth-street, the Park entrance, to White Plains, a distance of not less than fifteen miles.

The following is the programme for to-day's music on the Mall, commencing at 4 P.M. If the weather be fine, the attendance of visitors will doubtless be large:

PART I.

Concert Signal March.
1. Overture, La Fille du Regiment.....Donizetti
2. Waltz, Pastoral Songs.....Bequet
3. March, l'Oeil Crevé.....Bousiasset

PART II.

4. Selection, Bonio and Juliette.....Gounod
5. March, I Love the Military.....Godfrey
6. Song, Dover Abbey.....Crouch
7. Fantasia, La Parichole.....Offenbach

PART III.

8. March, Grosses Breslau.....Faust
9. Collection, Blue Bells.....Dedworth
10. Polka, Jenny.....Lecher
11. Pot March from Der Tannhauser.....Wagner

Finale—Home Thoughts.

Interesting School Exercises.

Yesterday the pupils of Grammar School No. 2, in Henry-street, of which Mr. Wm. J. HAGGERTY is Principal, performed a number of interesting exercises, on the occasion of closing for the vacation term. Commissioner WOOD and Messrs. of the Board of Education, and a number of invited guests were present. The following was the programme:

Anthem, "Praise the Lord," Female Department; Recitation, "Lengthening of the Days," John Harrison; Solo, "I am Lonely To-night," Miss Bailey; Recitation, "Lines to a Mocking Bird," Miss Carrie Manning; Recitation, "The Dedication," John Funny; Chorus, "Slowly and Softly," Female Department; Recitation, "Mercy," Philip Harris; Duet, "Lorenzo," Misses Hayes and Welsh; Instrumental, "When the Swallows Homeward Fly," Miss C. Minnette; Recitation, "Spartacus," Mortimer J. Binsleb; Song, "Kate's Secret," Miss Kate Hayes; Instrumental, Master Goodwin; Song, "Beneath that Light we Hold," Miss Minnie Shea; Chorus, "We are Faithful," Female Department; Recitation, "Public Schools of Our Land," Master C. Cowles; Chorus, "Our Public School," School. The performances were unexceptionably good throughout, and were heartily applauded.

City Missionaries in Summer Time.

Rev. Dr. MUHLENBERG is out with a characteristic appeal for the poor in Summer, reminding the wealthy and benevolent that the poor, in our crowded tenement-houses, are often found by the City mission

THE OLD STORY.

Michael Casey, of No. 31 Clinton-street, Brooklyn, early reports a tale told almost every day with variations of time and place, when he states that he visited a friend in Jersey City, and when he came home he felt asleep, and when he awoke, as he declares, Patrick Carr, his old enemy, stood beside his pillow. He subsequently found he had been robbed of $50. Both parties were arrested, and Justice Dowling, after hearing the case, fined Casey $10 for being drunk, and discharged Carr.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

It is reported that positions in the new Cabinet have been offered to prominent members of the Opposition by the French Government.

The Bishop of Linz, who was convicted by a civil court at Vienna a few days ago of "uttering doctrines subversive of public order," and sentenced to three months' imprisonment, has refused the Emperor's amnesty, and decided to submit to the sentence imposed.

JOHN BRIGHT has been unanimously elected a member of the Athenæum Club.

The London Times of yesterday, in its comments on the action of the Commons on the Irish Church bill the previous evening, advises the Conservative Lords to be content with the presentation of Earl DERBY's protest, and not continue their opposition to the bill. Meetings of the people are to be held at once in various parts of the Kingdom in support of the Commons; and the Reform League contemplates an indignation demonstration against the Lords.

GENERAL.

The testimony in the Erie disaster inquiry fully corroborates the account which we published yesterday, and in addition, indicates clearly the cause of the disaster. No less than three employes of the road, including the engineer, were asleep on the train which caused the disaster by moving out of its place; the conductor was in his caboose or sleeping car; the train was moved without a signal; and, according to the conductor's testimony, it is customary to sleep and to run trains on the Erie Road against positive orders. The verdict holds the sleepy engineer guilty, and exonerates all other employes of the road. The engineer was yesterday arrested at Salamanca, N. Y.

The flight of WELCH, the railway contractor, from Poughkeepsie, with $7,000 belonging in part to the laborers on the Poughkeepsie and Eastern Railroad, and leaving a quantity of unpaid bills, is the cause of great excitement in that city. The laborers have held meetings and have determined to secure the property left behind at Pleasant Valley for themselves. So when the Sheriff of Dutchess County attempted to attach it, they resisted. The consequence is that the military is ordered out, and serious trouble is feared.

General WALKER, Governor elect of Virginia, is at Binghamton, his native place. On the evening of his arrival, Thursday, he was serenaded, and received by the city authorities. Judge RANSOM BALCOM made a speech on the occasion, to which General WALKER replied.

In Gallipolis, Ohio, a boy named VAN VLERICK stabbed his grandfather, a Mr. LAVIN, on Wednesday, because he took him to task for fighting in the street with another boy. The old man died in ten minutes after the wound was inflicted, and the boy was arrested and lodged in jail.

A general rebellion is feared by the Sing Sing Prison authorities. On Thursday a number of convicts in the quarry refused to work, and were locked up; and yesterday many more refused to work, and were also locked up. Another convict escaped yesterday.

Owing to the frequent burglaries and incendiary fires in Waterford, Conn., the citizens there are making movements toward the organization of a Vigilance Committee.

The chime, altar bells, and other property stolen from the Catholic church at Cohoes, a week ago, were found on Thursday, at the bottom of the Mohawk River.

The house of WILLIAM HAYNES, a farmer, in Brunswick, Rensselaer County, was robbed, Wednesday night, by burglars, of $600 in Government bonds and $200 in greenbacks.

A defalcation of $17,000 to $25,000 has been discovered in the Bank of Commerce of Baltimore on the part of one of its officers. The matter is under investigation by the directors of the bank.

The official count of the Virginia State vote at headquarters, shows WALKER's majority to be 17,800.

Mr. T. SANFORD, the oldest passenger conductor on the Erie and Pittsburg Railroad, was struck on the head by a switch target while looking out from the platform of the rear car of his train, as it was nearing Greenville, on Wednesday, and thrown to the ground. He was seriously and perhaps fatally injured.

Several disasters have recently occurred on the Union Pacific Railroad in consequence of the late heavy rains. The train which left St. Louis on Wednesday was wrecked at a point 250 miles west of Omaha, by the caving in of an embankment. One passenger was killed, JOHN DUYER, of Maryland, and another, name unknown, badly injured.

The French societies of Detroit, Mich., are preparing to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the birth of NAPOLEON BONAPARTE. As the anniversary occurs this year on Sunday—the 15th of August—their celebration will be on the Monday following. The exercises will include a procession in the morning and a picnic in the afternoon.

The one hundred and first annual Commencement of Brown University, at Providence, R. I., occurs on Wednesday, Sept. 1. The Phi Beta Kappa Society will meet on the previous Tuesday. Rev. PHILLIPS BROOKS, of Philadelphia, will be the orator, and HENRY G. WHITEHEAD, of Providence, the poet. The Society of Missionary Inquiry is to be addressed on Tuesday evening by Rev. AUGUSTUS H. STRONG, of Cleveland, Ohio.

The University courses of instruction at Harvard College for the current year will be given to competent persons, "men and women," according to the official announcement. The lessons of the course are to be given by Professors BOWEN, HEDGE and LOWELL, RALPH WALDO EMERSON, Mr. HOWELLS and others. It is said that this is one of the reforms of the new President of Harvard.

"Le Coterie of New-York" intend giving a masquerade ball at the Stetson House, Long Branch, on Thursday evening, Aug. 5, 1869.

JOSIE MARDEN, mate on the schooner Agnes Ann, used for hauling sand from Tangier Sound to Washington, was stabbed to death on Wednesday night in the cabin of the schooner, by JAMES KELLEY, the steward. The two had quarreled while wrestling a week or more ago. KELLEY was arrested and held for trial.

The Yale crew, with two of the Ward brothers, went to Worcester on Wednesday night and took up their quarters at the head of Quinsigamond.

JOHN O'CONNELL, stage carpenter at the Bowery Theatre, died on the 14th very suddenly. An effort was made to keep the fact from the papers and the Coroner. The latter held no inquest, nor was any report made to the proper authorities.

A number of sentences were imposed on criminals in the Court of General Sessions yesterday, the term of imprisonment ranging from one year in the Penitentiary to five years in State Prison.

JACOB EBBELE has been held for examination on a charge of selling spurious champagne for the imported article and not paying any tax.

The examination of the VEREELAND abandonment case was again adjourned yesterday in consequence of the alleged sickness of the defendant.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday seven Wall-street brokers were arraigned on charges of usury, and gave bonds to appear for trial.

The $80,000 of Fenian funds, so long a bone of contention between that organization and BELMONT & Co., is at last about to be disposed of, Judge MCCUNN having appointed THOMAS J. BARR as receiver, to take possession of the money.

One case of cholera was reported yesterday, on the west side of the City, but upon examination it was found to be a case of severe diarrhœa.

Railroad Massacres—The Latest Tragedy on the Erie Road.

The massacre of ten persons on the Erie Railroad, the awful particulars of which were laid before our readers yesterday, forms one of the saddest tragedies ever chronicled. Other accidents by land and water have been more fruitful of death, but none of greater horrors. The heart sickens at the thought of the incidents of the dreadful scene. The sudden overturning of the locomotive, the crushing together of the cars crowded with human beings, the burning of men and children before the eyes of friends impotent to rescue them from the fiery death—who can recall all this without intense indignation at the recklessness and mismanagement that caused the fearful tragedy?

A Coroner's inquest was held yesterday to investigate the causes of this deplorable "accident;" and the results of the investigation, though it was far short of what it should have been, are full of startling revelations. It was proved that the engineer of the freight train was known to be an untrustworthy man, and that the most common regulations required for safety were habitually violated by the employes of the road. But this is not enough. There should be still further and more rigid inquiry instituted at once. We had hoped the inquest might extend beyond the usual form of inquiry into the conduct of those in charge of the trains at the time of the collision. The public ought not to be satisfied that a scapegoat should be made of the sleepy wretch whose carelessness was the immediate cause of the disaster; the inquiry should have extended far back of this. Searching inquisition ought to be made into the system of management which not only renders such an accident possible, but even seems to invite it. If common report be reliable, there is urgent need of such an inquiry. We hear reports of minor accidents, which barely escape the magnitude of tragedies, but which never see the light in public prints, because people are in general too indifferent to their own safety and the common security to take the pains to make them public; yet they indicate a condition of affairs that should awaken attention and provoke rigid inquiry. If true, the interests of the public demand that they should be investigated; and if not true, it is for the interest of the road to set them at rest.

We suppose it must be conceded that unavoidable accidents do sometimes occur; but careful investigation has shown the number to be exceedingly small, and that most casualties on the highways of travel are the result either of gross carelessness on the part of employes or of culpable mismanagement on the part of the companies. The superficial facts in regard to this latest tragedy have been brought to light before the Coroner, but it should not be overlooked that under its present management the Erie Railroad has been deprived of the services of a long-tracked and competent General Superintendent, who knew every section of the road from its eastern to its western terminus as well as a man knows the pathway to his own doorstep, and has been placed in charge of a man who may be quite as competent, for aught we know, but whose railroad knowledge was gained elsewhere, and who, as we are informed, was placed in his present position without previous acquaintance with the road; and that the Superintendent of the Division on which this "accident" occurred was recently compelled to leave because he manfully refused to employ an incompetent person in a responsible position. Can it be doubted that such changes as these have lowered the morale of the employes of the Company, and made them indifferent to the great responsibilities involved in their position? Can we differ as to whom the public should hold responsible for the awful occurrence that has cost ten human lives, and carried mourning and sorrow into scores of families?

But furthermore,—and this, we confess, is by far the most saddening and disheartening aspect of the case,—the public is itself chiefly to blame for the frequency of such disasters. We are not, as a people, indifferent to the calamities that befall our fellow-men. We are shocked when such accidents occur, and we hasten to alleviate the sufferings of the maimed, and soothe the sorrows of the bereaved. But the shock is momentary, and when we have given our money and poured out our words of sympathy, we let the matter drop out of mind until the next terrible calamity makes a new call upon our purses and our hearts. This ought not so to be. The public has no right to be thus indifferent. Railroad and steamship travel ought to be as safe as walking in one's own garden. It might be made so, if the public would interest itself in the matter, and compel the necessary legislation to make every transportation company strictly responsible for the safety of the lives committed to its care. But the public does nothing of the sort. It is satisfied to have the Press denounce the shortcomings of railway and steamship companies; and trusting to better luck, or resigned to fate, crowds into railway cars or steamships the day after a collision or a wreck with a thoughtlessness that almost justifies the reckless mismanagement which may make them cripples for life or consign them to sudden death.

Progress of Reconstruction—The Mississippi and Texas Elections.

We see no reason for quarreling with the time fixed by the President for the Mississippi and Texas elections. It may be later than some citizens of those States have desired it to be; but the allegation of undue delay which is preferred in some quarters, is no more plausible or just than would be an imputation of undue haste on the other side. The earliest possible reconstruction of the two excluded States is extremely desirable. The duties connected therewith are, however, at once delicate and important, and we cannot doubt that in their performance by the Executive more respect has been and will be paid to the requirements of law, the interests of the States concerned, and the success of the measures devised by Congress, than to the promptings of partisans, who care for nothing half so much as for their own personal advantage.

Whatever be the merit of the complaint in regard to the date of the Mississippi election, certainly the terms of the Proclamation issued by General GRANT are entitled to the heartiest approbation. They prove more conclusively than the loudest professions the sincerity of his desire to adapt the provisions of the new Constitution to the condition and wishes of the people, and to purge from it every element of rancor and proscription. The disfranchising and disability clauses, and the clause enacting an offensively stringent oath of office, are submitted separately; as is also a section restraining the State from pledging its credit in aid of corporate enterprises. All that was done for Virginia is done again for Mississippi. The authority vested in the President by the recent legislation of Congress is exerted in the interests of liberality and peace. The State has an opportunity of voting down the harsh and intolerant provisions proposed by the Convention, and of ratifying that instrument in a shape which, while securing political equality and justice to all, will be free from the penalties which combined ignorance, selfishness and prejudice would have perpetuated. A fairer opportunity the President could not have afforded. And in furnishing it to the Mississippians, he shows by a bold and decisive act his aversion to partisan intolerance, and his willingness to promote genuine reconstruction. He is anxious to be the means of hastening their restoration to the Union, and the step he has taken will enable them to complete the work in a manner acceptable to the country. The welcome with which Virginia has been all but universally greeted has demonstrated that the country cares much more for the great realities of reconstruction than for details connected with the local ticket. If the intelligence and public spirit of Mississippi will imitate the example set by the supporters of WALKER in Virginia, and, discarding jealousies, antipathies, and issues having no relation to the work in hand, will nominate unexceptionable men, and conduct the canvass judiciously, we may anticipate an equally satisfactory result. The platforms promulgated by both "Conservative" and "Radical" Republicans in the State are broad, liberal and just. The differences which separate them evidently relate to persons and to ulterior combinations—not to principles, or any policy that justifies the interference of the Administration for or against either.

And as in Virginia and Mississippi, so is it in Texas. One object, and one only, has been visible in the plans of the Government. Its duty in the premises is limited to enabling the people of the unreconstructed States to regain self-government and national representation by compliance with the terms prescribed by Congress. The law does not exact from the States adhesion to "Radicalism" or "Conservatism" as a condition-precedent of readmission. It requires only that the results of the war be accepted in good faith—that the rights of black and white be protected, that they be secured equality and fair-play in the organization of the State Government and the conduct of affairs. More than this was not dreamed of when the reconstruction plan was under consideration, and more than this ought not to enter into the deliberations or purposes of General GRANT and his advisers. The precise hue of the Republicanism which comes out of the contest triumphant is as nothing compared with the bona fide acceptance of the terms of the law by Mississippians and Texans. Their return to the Union under the conditions defined by Congress is alone the end which the President is called upon to secure.

The true interest of the Administration and the Republican Party in these elections cannot be separated from the success of reconstruction. That which promotes the return of the States with Constitutions acceptable to Congress, and with men elected to whom the law offers no impediment, will be best for the President and the party. The influence of both will be most effectually strengthened by a line of conduct which tends to convince the people of the States that the Government has no other object than the completion of the Union with defined and understood guarantees. By following this method in Virginia, the President has accomplished more for the future of the Republican Party in that State than the most adroit partisan tactics could possibly have achieved. The result, as the Secretary of War is reported to have said, is, that Virginia is at this moment more thoroughly reconstructed than any other Southern State—judging of reconstruction by its relation to the local feeling as well as to the law. The same object may, we believe, be attained in Mississippi and Texas by the employment of similar means. These are cases in which just and magnanimous views do more for the party sanctioning them than any device of office-seekers and village politicians. They are cases in which, even in a party sense, statesmanship is wiser and more profitable than the hackneyed ways of a vulgar partisanship.

What President Grant Means.

The World, in citing what it considers to be "conclusive evidence of the Government's violation of its international obligations to Spain," asks, in closing, "will the TIMES inform us, by these lights, what Mr. GRANT's Government means?"

The trouble is that we do not see the case exactly in "those lights." But, in the light of the instructions which the President sent to his subordinates a few days since, we may reply, very confidently, that, to the best of our belief, "Mr. GRANT's Government means" to break up the next Cuban expedition from this port as effectually as it broke up the last. The World will call to mind how the force of its remarks on the late expedition was somewhat weakened by the expedition's being crushed out just as those remarks appeared. In like manner, while the same journal puts the query just quoted, Marshal BARLOW and District-Attorney PIERREPONT, in pursuance of instructions just received from the President, are using extraordinary efforts to prevent the departure of new expeditions, and to arrest all persons violating the Neutrality act.

Indeed now, as before, whatever vigilance and energy on the Government's part can accomplish, will be done. The Government authorities in this City are directed, if they can prevent the departure of hostile expeditions in no other way, to call upon General MCDOWELL, the Department Commander, for troops, and on Admiral GONON, the commandant at the Navy-yard, for vessels and other naval forces. Moreover, as Marshal BARLOW had just sent word to Washington regarding the fillibuster camp at Gardiner's Island, he received prompt instruction to proceed against the new nuisance. In a word, the Government directed the course to be repeated which had already been pursued so effectively regarding the Catharine Whiting,—and the public news of the day is the best answer to the inquiry, "what the Government means."

The World puts another query to the TIMES, which is equally easy to answer. It is this:

"Further, whether the Spanish claim which may some time be presented against us will not, at this rate, be pretty nearly identical with the Alabama claims now pending against England?"

We should say that things look very much as if there never would be any "Spanish claim," on fillibustering account, presented to us; and that if there ever should be one, it would not be "pretty nearly identical with the Alabama claims." In the Alabama case, the early history of the affair is a long series of ineffectual warnings, by our Minister, and of complaints by our Government. On the contrary, the Spanish officials do not warn or complain—they are perfectly satisfied, and so is everybody else, except the World, (and, as a matter of fact, we ought probably to include the World,) that the Government is doing its best to uphold our laws. In most cases, it has been successful. In one or two early cases—Marshal BARLOW declares there was but one—the Cubans managed to elude the vigilance of the Spanish spies themselves; but of course the Spanish Minister could not complain of what was as much a surprise to him as to us. Even the newspapers did not know about the expedition till it was off—and then some of them told the story about the wrong vessel! To be alarmed regarding the possible "identity" of this case with that of the Alabama, and Minister ADAMS' pleadings and protests, day after day and week after week, appears to us entirely unnecessary. The World is the only party that complains of the President's lenity to the Cubans—Spain is satisfied that we are doing our best; and it is from Spain that the "Spanish claim" should come.

What Will the Lords Do Now?

This is once more the question of the day in English politics. The Commons received the bill again in due course, and the amendments introduced by the Lords were submitted for their consideration. As we had been previously led to anticipate by the cable, the Cabinet decided to stand firm in their adherence to all the vital principles of the original measure, and to offer a determined opposition to all the amendments of the Lords which in any way infringed upon them. After a curt discussion, in the course of which Mr. DISRAELI moved that the amendments should be agreed to, and Mr. GLADSTONE announced the determination of the Ministry, the Lords' amendments respectively deferring the dissolution of Church and State in Ireland until 1871, postponing the disposition of the revenues indefinitely, and introducing the thin end of the wedge with regard to concurrent endowment, were all disagreed to, either by large majorities or without a division. On what was really the test vote—that with regard to the grant of glebe houses to ministers of all denominations—the majority for Government was 39—326 to 287. It is thus evident that party discipline was pretty strictly adhered to, although the Government majority was not quite what it was at the more critical stages of the bill. Still, however, it was amply sufficient to show the determination and discipline of the Government forces. A few amendments of less importance were acquiesced in, and the bill now goes back to the Lords for their decision as to whether or no they shall "insist" on their amendments.

We do not suppose that they will. Although it is true that a large number of Liberal Peers supported the amendments made in the Upper House, the "Liberalism" of the Peers is still far from being in full harmony with that of the party in the Commons, and still less with that of the constituencies which furnished Mr. GLADSTONE with the majority to pass the bill with. The Catholics are not, as far as it appears, prepared to accept any kind of endowment whatever. And although a certain section of the more theoretical and crotchety Liberals throughout the country might be induced to support a partial application of the concurrent endowment principle, there can be no doubt as to the firm determination of the great mass to uphold the bill in its integrity. So we are inclined to believe that the Lords will take things quietly, that the Opposition Peers will satisfy their consciences by joining in Lord DERBY's formally drawn up protest, and that having thus disclaimed all participation in the "spoliation" against which they have declaimed, they will withdraw their amendments and leave Mr. GLADSTONE triumphant on every point.

An American Atlantic Cable.

We took occasion yesterday to urge the institution of an Atlantic cable which should be under American control. We are connected with Europe by an English cable, both of the ends of which are on English territory, and by a French cable, both of the ends of which are on French territory. The Governments of England and France have frequently been inimical to American interests, and may again become so; but it is on other accounts as well as this that there ought to be an ocean telegraph beyond their control. We ought to have a cable, one end of which should be upon our own territory, and the other end upon the territory of some European Power with which we are never likely to have collision or difficulty,—say, for example, Germany.

When we wrote the remarks on this idea which were published yesterday, we had no knowledge of the existence of any American Cable Company. We have since heard, however, that a number of our wealthy and skilled financiers have for some time past been quietly working up the means and the programme for an American Atlantic Cable, to proceed direct from New-York City to Europe.

This line will be worked with what are known in telegraphic circles as "sounder instruments"—that is, the alphabet is indicated by sound instead of by the galvanometer reflector system, as now used on cables, and can be operated three or four times as rapidly as can possibly be done by the present system. Two sets of these instruments were manufactured for this company some time since, and have been thoroughly tested both in Europe and America—in Europe through a circuit of 3,000 miles of insulated wire, and with the most perfect success. They are constructed upon entirely new principles, and are so far wholly unknown to the public.

We are told that arrangements have been made with responsible parties in relation to the finances of the enterprise, and it is confidently expected that the project will be far advanced toward completion during the coming Fall.

The present French Cable Company seems to have acquired an exclusive concession from the French Government for the landing of cables upon the French coast for the term of twenty years from September next—and this notwithstanding assurances given to this American Company by officers of the French Government last year that no exclusive privileges would be conceded to any cable corporation, but that equal rights would be extended to all competing parties.

For prudential reasons the European terminus of the proposed American Cable is for the present withheld; but it is perhaps worth while to mention that the consideration of amity, present and prospective, of any foreign Government has entered into the calculation of the new projectors in the selection of a terminus. It is expected, indeed it is intended, that by constructing a direct route from New-York City, and working it upon these improved plans, the Company will be enabled to do business at rates scarcely, if at all, in advance of present rates on American land lines.

Revenue Frauds at New-Orleans and Philadelphia.

When the President appointed his brother-in-law, Mr. CASEY, Collector for the Port of New-Orleans, in noticing the appointment we said, in substance, that we were glad to see that the President was willing to make himself responsible for the execution of the Revenue laws in New-Orleans by placing a relative in so prominent a position as that of Collector of the Port. We regarded it as an additional guarantee that the laws were to be rigidly executed and the revenues faithfully collected. The result shows that our impressions were correct. Mr. CASEY has not been very long in office, but he has been in long enough to enable him to unearth and bring to light the unparalleled frauds committed under the administration of his predecessor. It seems from the reports that there was a well and thoroughly organized ring in the New-Orleans Custom-house, composed of merchants and Custom-house officials, for the purpose of smuggling sugars and other goods. The highest grade of sugars, which should have paid three cents per pound duty, were admitted as sugars of a lower grade paying from one to two cents per pound, while other sugars were admitted in large quantities without paying any duty at all. The extent of the frauds has not yet been definitely ascertained, but enough is already known to warrant the conclusion that they will reach a very large sum, probably not less than a half a million dollars. When New-Orleans merchants could sell sugars free of duty, it is no wonder that St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati merchants went there to purchase.

Collector CASEY has not contented himself with simply exposing the fraud, but he has pursued the investigation with great energy, seizing the smuggled property wherever it can be found. He has already seized large quantities of sugar in Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis, which had been purchased of the fraudulent importer at New-Orleans. He gives no quarter, and we are quite mistaken if the whole ring is not forced to make "an unconditional surrender."

But while the revenue service of New-Orleans is likely to be greatly improved by the energy, courage and fidelity of Collector CASEY, a communication which we published in our issue of the 16th inst., from a well-informed correspondent, relative to "Whisky Frauds" in Philadelphia, shows that an intelligent, vigorous and honest officer is required at the head of the revenue service in that city. Whisky that costs one dollar per gallon to manufacture, provided the tax is honestly paid, is sold there at ninety cents per gallon, and no less than fifteen distilleries are profitably employed in manufacturing and selling whisky upon these terms.

Philadelphia next to New-Orleans has for years been one of the worst places in the country for revenue frauds. "Highwines or raw whisky," says our correspondent, "is offered for sale in Philadelphia, in barrels having a wholesale dealer's stamp, at 90 cents per gallon, and the same whisky, when the distillers' and bonded warehouse stamps are on the barrels, cannot be bought for less than from 95 to 99 cents per gallon." It further appears that on the 9th inst. the market price of whisky in Chicago was 95 cents, in Cincinnati 96 cents, in Baltimore $1, in New-York 99 cents, while in Philadelphia it was but 90 cents per gallon. The bare statement of these facts is sufficient to show the extent to which the Government is being defrauded in Philadelphia. And it has been so for years. No previous administration of the revenue has been strong enough to enforce the laws in Philadelphia and suppress the frauds in whisky. There is a baneful influence there which heretofore has nullified every effort that has been made to prevent cheating, and paralyzed every arm that has been lifted against the thieves in the "City of Brotherly Love."

The present Administration has as yet made but little progress in its efforts at reform. Some new efforts must be made and some new and untried power called into requisition. If the President has another nominee of the same sort as CASEY we urge him to send him at once to Philadelphia. But if the President has none, perhaps Secretary BOUTWELL or Commissioner DELANO could furnish one for the occasion. We don't care whose nominee he is, provided he is some one holding such intimate personal relations either with the President, the Secretary or Commissioner that if these frauds are not suppressed the people can charge the responsibility for their continuance directly upon the head of some bureau or department at Washington.

MINOR TOPICS.

In one of his eccentric speeches, Senator SPRAGUE said that nothing in the world was more mean and cowardly than a million of dollars,—except two millions. If this be so, what must we think of the generosity and pluck of ASA PACKER, the Democratic nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania, who is worth twenty millions?

Rule No. 581 of the Board of Metropolitan Police gives a list of offences against the ordinances of the City of New-York, and of the forty-two acts named which can be legally construed as offences against our municipal peace and dignity, the only one raised to the dignity of "small capt" is the following: "HANGING GOODS ON SIGNS MORE THAN ONE FOOT FROM A HOUSE OR STORE." Now, if the Board of Police have correctly stated the law, our plan for widening Broadway, by simply utilizing the space already there by removing all goods and signs from the sidewalk, will be surely carried into effect when it shall happen to occur to the Police Commissioners that they are under obligation to execute a provision of the law to which they especially call the attention of the force. We shall look to see the blue-robed giants of the Broadway Squad soon engaged in removing the obstructions from the sidewalks of the thoroughfare they ornament.

BRIGHAM YOUNG, addressing the women and girls of his dominion, argues that polygamy is a means of maintaining social morality; because, if the superfluity of the female sex is allowed to take its chances in the world, as among the "Gentiles," crowds of poor girls must go, or be led, astray. He wishes women would see it, and adopt his ideas and advice. But in this they would be only imitating the behavior of the reptiles, long ago, when St. Patrick "went for them," and when

"The frogs committed suicide
To save themselves from slaughter!"

The women would hardly improve their condition by following the Irish example of those illogical old batrachians.

The Shakers of New-Lebanon will not serve their society by trying to keep a child of nine years old from her parent and family on the plea that an indenture had been signed. Such an infant could not be a fair subject of any indenture, and the common sense of the public will have decided the question before the Judge has pronounced upon it.

Mr. FECHTER, the passionate, romantic and adoring lover of the stage, comes with such a "sennet" as never heralded performer before, and all who read Mr. DICKENS' paper in our columns yesterday will be half mad to see him—especially in the character of the flaxen-haired and woe-begone Hamlet, walking in careless desolation, like HAREAGER, in a suit of sackcloth! But why not as Romeo, too? He would be the very man for Romeo—"It is the east, and Juliet is the sun!". It would furthermore be a good thing for Juliet; for that lady would, through FECHTER's love, have such a hold upon the affections of the audiences, as Mr. DICKENS intimates, that her fortune would be made. But, Ray, Rosencrood or Romeo, the "ferociously picturesque" FECHTER shall have a considerable welcome. "The lover shall not sigh gratis."

There are thousands of useless curs running at large in our streets unmuzzled, and scarcely a day passes that the policemen are not called upon to shoot dogs that exhibit symptoms of hydrophobia. Having reason, therefore, to fear serious harm from the presence of these rabid beasts, it is not pleasant to know that the whole canine race has been taken under the protection of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and that a Police Captain has been arrested for no other offence than shooting an animal that was the pest of a densely-peopled neighborhood. He proposes, as a sort of retributive justice, to enforce the penalty of $50 fine against the corpse of every unmuzzled dog running at large below Forty-second-street. There is a glimmer of hope here that we may be rid of a few of the dangerous pests, despite their powerful protectors.

We learn from a Bombay paper that the cultivation of the poppy is at once to be largely increased in the Bengal Presidency, and the necessary orders have been issued in time for the cultivation of next year. This action is in consequence of the proclamation of the Emperor of China, prohibitory of opium cultivation in any part of the Imperial dominions. The English are determined to supply the Chinese with an abundance of this ruinous narcotic.

Mr. PEABODY, in his late speech at South Danvers, makes, among other excellent remarks, one that should be noted by those who have to get up institutions of any sort. He says people are too apt to lay out their funds in making a splendid show of architecture, instead of providing the essentials—such as the books of a library, or the more needful machinery, at first. There is certainly too great a propensity to have everything in showy style, instead of building each accomplishment to the coming men, with their suggestions and improvements. In general, we put too fine a point on it, in our haste to have everything grandiose and ornamental.

The London Times has been attempting for some time past to induce the Russian and English Governments to cooperate in the East Indies for their joint and individual advantage. There has always heretofore been in England a fear of Russian schemes in India and a jealousy of Russian advances; and it has been the aim of the English policy to weaken and keep back Russian influence in that quarter. We judge from the comments of the Russian journals upon the new idea of the Times that there is not much chance of the cooperation it has been urging.

It is the case this year, as it has been in past years, that the great majority of emigrants from Europe who land in Canada push their way through to the United States. Nearly 20,000 arrived in Canada during the first half of this year, and, according to Canadian official statistics, only one-quarter of them have remained there. We have no doubt that the majority of the quarter will also be here before the close of the year.

We learn from a Bombay paper that the utilization of the Rhea plant as an article of merchandise is now considered to be almost hopeless, at least in the absence of suitable machinery to clean the fibre, to make the cultivation of the plant pay in India. There can be no question of the value of the fibre as a material from which textile fabrics of the finest and best quality can be manufactured, but the cost of cleaning and preparing the fibre is represented to be so great as to render nugatory all other advantages.

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

Letter from United States Senator Cole, of California.

The following letter from Senator CORNELIUS COLE, of California, on the question of Chinese immigration, was written to a gentleman in San Francisco, and was furnished to the Alta for publication:

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27, 1869.

DEAR SIR: Some of your remarks about Chinese immigration are touching; but I cannot indorse all you say on that head. Their labor is undoubtedly an advantage to us. I suppose you would not hire one unless you believed his services were worth more to you than his wages, or unless you were willing to exchange your money for his labor. A great portion of the wealth of a country is reproduced annually, and if the industry of a country were to be suspended only for a single year, everything would go to destruction. Labor is the great reliance of every civilized nation, and few places are more in need of it than California. She was more in want of it formerly than now. The Chinese have supplied a very considerable demand. We should have lacked many of the evidences of material prosperity we now possess, but for them; and I do not know that you can point to harm they have done sufficient to offset the good they have effected. They are industrious and frugal people, and possessed of far more enterprise than mere heathens. They are not barbarians in the common sense of that word.

It seems many are coming to our coast at present, but I have no fears of the State becoming overrun by them. The distance across the Pacific is too great, and the outlet on this side too extensive. They will be apt to find their way into Mexico, and there, in my judgment, is the proper home for this class of immigration, and they will find it to their season. They possess just the virtues which the Mexicans lack. Their habits of labor and thrift would convert the fertile wastes of that country into gardens. The Mexicans will not work; the Chinese will not be idle. They are as opposite in habits as possible. The one would keep that country forever poor, the other speedily enrich it. Mexico, though abundantly endowed by nature, is noted for its poverty and insecurity, and so it will remain while it depends upon the Indian and Spanish races for its prosperity. China, on the other hand, is one of the richest countries in the world, and she has been made so by the industry of her people. Of these people she can spare enough to regenerate Mexico and not miss them. A small percentage of the natives of China transferred to Mexico would instill a new life into that country. Of the two civilizations, judged by every test, that founded by CONFUCIUS far surpasses that found in the land of the Montezumas.

Should the Chinese continue to pour down upon our Pacific coast so as to excite the fears of our people, it would be an easy matter to turn the tide to the Atlantic, where there is room and work enough for all. There is an unlimited field, fresh for the exercise of their habits of wealth-making and wealth-preserving. What is now little less than a dreary waste, would, under the magic influence of labor, bud and blossom as the rose.

There ought to be no objection to an outlet upon this broad continent for a portion of the pent-up populations of China and Japan. Besides Mexico, nearly all of Central and South America is open to them, and mankind would be greatly benefited by their coming. The wealth and happiness of the world would be indefinitely increased thereby.

I cannot sympathize with that eminently Chinese policy of excluding from the uncultivated fields of the New World lay people who desire to increase the number of blades of grass and ears of corn. It has long been our proudest boast that America is the asylum of the oppressed of all the lands, and if the crowded population of Asia as well as of Europe desire the privilege of expending their labor here, let them come. Our immigration from Europe this year is unusually large—more than twenty-five thousand in excess of last year at this date. These tides may meet and possibly mingle, but it is more likely that the Asiatic portion will be deflected southward, where a more congenial home for them can be found.

I can remember no country that has not been benefited by legitimate immigration. Our own is a conspicuous example of this. In some cases we could have desired a better class of immigration, but we have repelled none, and the general result has been advantageous. The character of population, independent of race, depends much upon the condition of those to which they are thrown, and the descendants of the Chinese, should their descendants grow up in this country, may conform closely to our habits of thinking and acting. Such, at all events, has been the case with every other race that has come to this country. If in that event, they should claim and be permitted to exercise the privileges of citizenship, no evil can come of it. There is not, as I can discover, the least likelihood that the native-born Chinamen will ever exercise or claim any such privilege. He will never become an element in our politics for the two distinct reasons—that he could not if he would, and he would not if he could.

But, independent of this aspect of the case, we should not forget that the Chinese are, almost to a man, skilled in the production of some articles of great importance to us, which we cannot produce without them, but which can be produced by them probably as well in our country as in their own. This skill, when exercised upon our own soil, and in our own shops, becomes American, and we reap the advantage of it. While we have an abundance of room, let any people come who come armed with implements of industry alone, whose arts are the arts of peace, and not of war, and whose aim is production, and not destruction. Truly yours, C. COLE.

NORTH CAROLINA MORMONS.—A colony of one hundred persons of both sexes passed through the city yesterday, on their way to Salt Lake City. They came from Surry County, North Carolina, and got on the train at Wytheville Depot. The women of the party largely outnumbered the men. It seemed a rough, ignorant set altogether, though perfectly in earnest.—Lynchburg (Va.) Republican, July 14.

WASHINGTON.

The New Cable and the Government—Political Affairs in Mississippi and Texas—The Frauds in New-Orleans and the West—Cuban Envoys of the Capital—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 16.

The agents and others interested in the success of the French cable are making strong exertions to secure a connection with the mainland of the United States, so that the undertaking may, as soon as possible, be followed by the anticipated financial and commercial results. The French Charge d'Affaires and the English and French agent of the Company arrived here last night, and had an interview with the Secretary of State to-day on the subject; their object is to endeavor to effect some arrangement whereby the cable will be allowed to be landed immediately. The result of the interview with Mr. FISH has not been made public, but there are indications that some arrangement which will be satisfactory to all parties, at least for the present, is not a very impossible or improbable event.

CUBAN ENVOYS IN THE CITY.

Señor LEMUS and other Cuban envoys have arrived here, and are engaged in endeavoring to further the interests of the revolutionists. Mr. LEMUS, in the course of a conversation this afternoon, was disinclined to believe that the Administration meant to deal with the Cuban patriots as harshly as the recent orders of the President to United States Marshals and others seemed on their face to imply. He was diplomat enough not to express the least dissatisfaction with the course our Government has chosen to take, and was noticeably calm and collected under the circumstances. In reference to the mission of General SICKLES to Spain, and the purchase of the Island of Cuba by the United States, he was extremely reticent. "Of course," said he, "I cannot say anything on that subject at present." He did not, however, discountenance the idea or contradict the rumor which is afloat and which has not yet received official confirmation, that such a scheme is contemplated. Mr. LEMUS was extremely denunciatory of the course of the Spaniards. One of the latest measures which they have adopted to suppress the insurrection is the laying of an embargo on the property of those supposed to have any sympathy with the revolution. The property of MIGUEL ALDAMA and his father, DOMINGO, has been recently embargoed. ALDAMA is reported to be possessed of property worth half a million annually, and it was supposed by the Spaniards that he was aiding his countrymen.

MISSISSIPPI AND TEXAS.

The political aspect of affairs in Mississippi and Texas continues to be a subject of discussion, although not one of anxiety in Administration circles. Among outside politicians in the Republican Party the general feeling appears to run in opposition to what is called the Conservative or quasi Republican Party, and in favor of the Republican Party proper. A high official from Mississippi, who enjoys a national reputation, but who does not wish to be quoted on the subject, says that a Conservative victory there will result in turning the State over to the rebels. He does not see any reason why there should be two parties there, each claiming to be Republican, and views with distrust the Conservative movement. He also reports a decided improvement in the morale of the Republican Party in the State, and rejoices that the control of affairs generally has passed out of the hands of some men who carried things with a pretty high hand some two years ago. The representatives of the Davis Party in Texas express their entire satisfaction with the proclamation of the President, ordering the election in that State in November. It appears that Ex-Governor PEASE, who came here in the interest of Mr. DAVIS, urged the appointment of an earlier day by the President, and was much dissatisfied that his wishes had not been complied with. Mr. PEASE has not much faith in General DAVIS, and expressed the opinion before he left the city that DAVIS would not be able to poll more than ten or twelve thousand votes.

REVENUE SEIZURES IN THE WEST.

The Treasury Department received information to-day of the seizure in Chicago and St. Louis of a large number of barrels and boxes of sugar, being a portion of the lots which were recently passed through the New-Orleans Custom-house in a fraudulent manner. A special agent has undertaken the investigation of the matter, and various other cities and points are to be visited for the purpose of following up, detecting and punishing the perpetrators of these frauds.

A PATENT CASE.

A case of some importance, relating to the American patent of Carlier's Fire Extinguisher, has been on trial before our Courts. The patent was, some time ago, issued by Judge FOOTE to the Boston Company, but the New-York Company applies to have that set aside, and one granted to them. Before the decision was reached by Commissioner FISHER, the case was taken into Judge OLIN's Court, and he has made a decree substantially in favor of the Boston parties, known as "The American Fire Extinguisher Company." No decision has yet been given by Colonel FISHER, and the probabilities seem to be that he will decline taking action while the matters are in litigation.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Friday, July 16.

THE FRENCH CABLE—THE TELEGRAPH BILL.

The French and British Legations here respectively forwarded to the parties directly interested the letter of the Secretary of State relative to telegraph communication between the United States and foreign countries, and particularly in relation to the landing of the French cable. A copy of the same letter will in a few days be transmitted to the Governor of Massachusetts, as a terminus of it is proposed to be secured in that State. Copies of the bill which passed the Senate but failed to be acted upon in the House for want of time, are inclosed to the several parties above mentioned, as the basis of action on the part of the Government of the United States, and as showing the opinion of Congress on that subject. This bill, as reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations, provides

That whenever communication shall hereafter be established between the United States and any foreign country by means of telegraphic or magnetic lines or cables laid in any part thereof, in and over the waters, reefs, islands, shores and lands within the jurisdiction of the United States, the same shall be subject to the following conditions, stipulations and reservations, to wit:

First—The Government of the United States shall be entitled to exercise and enjoy the same or similar privileges with regard to the control and use of any such line or cable, and the lines or cables connected therewith, that may be by law, agreement or otherwise The exercised and enjoyed by any foreign Government whatever.

Second—The United States Government shall at all times be entitled to the use of such line or cable, and the lines or cables connected therewith, by a telegraph operator of its own selection, to transmit any messages to and from its military, naval, diplomatic and consular agents; and such messages shall be entitled to have the same priority of all other messages.

Third—The rates to be paid for the transmission of any such message or dispatch, when not otherwise fixed by agreement, shall be established by the Post-General of the United States.

Fourth—The lines of any such lines or cables shall be kept open to the public for the transmission or daily publication of market and commercial reports and intelligence. All messages, dispatches and communications shall be forwarded in the order in which they are received, except as hereinafter provided.

Fifth—It shall be at all times lawful for the power of Congress to determine the rates to be charged for the transmission of messages and communications over any line or cable, and to fix and establish such rules and regulations in relation thereto as it may judge necessary.

Sixth—Before extending or establishing any such line or cable in or over any waters, reefs, islands, shores and lands within the jurisdiction of the United States, a written acceptance of the terms and conditions imposed by this act shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State by the company, corporation, or party proposing to establish telegraphic communication.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That subject to the foregoing conditions, stipulation and reservation, the consent of Congress is hereby given to the laying and maintaining of telegraphic or magnetic lines or cables between the United States and foreign countries in and over the waters, reefs, islands, shores and lands within the jurisdiction of the United States, Subject, however, to any and all rights of property and State jurisdiction over the same; Provided, That the privilege conferred by the act shall not be claimed [illegible] statement will show neither large reduction of the indebtedness, though not near so large as was exhibited on the 1st of the present month. The receipts from Customs and Internal Revenue are considered good for the dull season. Estimating the receipts and expenses of Government for the remainder of July on the basis of what they have been to the present date, the debt statement on the 1st of August will show a reduction of upward of $6,000,000.

A TREMBLING INDIAN WHISKY MILL.

Information has been received at the Revenue Bureau from Tennessee of the capture of an ox wagon in the mountains of Rock County loaded with whisky from some illicit distillery in Georgia. The owner of the team was selling whisky from the wagon to all who wanted to buy. When the revenue officers overhauled this peripatetic whisky mill, the proprietor abandoned his team and took to the woods. His name is ALLEN. The team consisted of two pair of oxen. It was taken possession of, but was subsequently recaptured from the officers and the oxen scattered through the woods. The whisky in the wagon was poured out on the ground and the wagon abandoned.

THE TRAVELING INDIAN COMMISSIONERS.

General SHERMAN directs the Commanding General of the Military Department on the frontier to furnish such military protection and escort as may be necessary to the members of the Commission upon Indian Affairs in their tour of inspection of the Indian tribes upon the reservations, about to be made by the Sub-Committees of the said Commission.

QUIET AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

The Executive Mansion is nearly deserted; only one clerk is now employed in the President's office. The ante-room is vacated by the official gentlemen usually in attendance, as in the President's absence their functions are necessarily suspended. There were numerous visitors to-day, however, to see the premises, among them a German Society just returned from the Saengerfest, who gave in the East Room, to the few listeners, a brief concert in chorus, including several of the loudest and most enthusiastic songs of Fatherland.

RAID ON ILLICIT DISTILLERS.

The revenue officers of Philadelphia, with the aid of the marines, have been making another raid on the illicit distilleries in the Richmond District, this time completely cleaning them out. No particulars are given.

FIFTEEN CENT CURRENCY.

Fifteen cent currency will be ready for issue by the United States Treasurer by Monday next.

THE TERGNE CASE.

Owing to the importance of the questions involved in the Yerger case, the Attorney-General has entered into a written stipulation with Messrs. PHILLIPS and CARLILE for the purpose of initiating proceedings by which these questions will be brought before the Supreme Court in October next for consideration and adjudication. In the meantime the application to the Chief Justice is suspended, without prejudice to the petitioners. The District-Attorney in Mississippi is directed to facilitate any proceeding necessary for the presentation of the case to the Supreme Court. The Attorney-General is authorized by the President to say that no sentence of the Military Commission will be carried into effect, save that which may be necessary to the safe custody of the prisoner. This agreement meets with the approbation of Chief Justice CHASE.

APPOINTMENT.

RICHARD P. DEHART, of Indiana, has been appointed United States Consul at St. Jago de Cuba.

ARMY.

The order of June 29, designating Brevet Brigadier-General James A. Ekin to act as Quartermaster-General during the absence of General Meigs, has been revoked, and Brevet Brigadier-General J. C. McFerran, is assigned to duty to act as Quartermaster-General until further orders.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Daniel Gregory Mason.

Intelligence reached this City a few days ago of the death of Mr. DANIEL GREGORY MASON, of the well-known firm of MASON BROTHERS of this City. Mr. MASON expired on the 24th ult., at Schwalbach, Germany. For a few months his health had been failing, and in April last he left New-York for Carlsbad, whither he was directed by his physicians, with the hope of a speedy and permanent cure. His malady, however, did not yield to the medical treatment of this celebrated resort for invalids, and he was forced to leave Carlsbad for the place where he died. His late associates did not expect so sudden a termination of his disease; they, indeed, had strong hopes of his recovery; and he himself, but a few days before his death, wrote home that in September he hoped again to be with them. The numerous friends of Mr. MASON, who was a most estimable gentleman, and a man of great culture, will attend his funeral on Saturday, July 17, at 2 o'clock. The remains will be removed from the house of his father, Dr. LOWELL MASON, Orange, N. J., and carriages will be in waiting at Montrose Station, Orange, on the arrival of the 1 o'clock train of the Morris and Essex Railroad from New-York.

Whisky Frauds in Philadelphia.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

An article headed as above, from a correspondent who signs himself B. O. F., appeared in your issue of the 12th inst., which is calculated to produce erroneous impressions. The columns of your paper have been open to an honorable discussion of the subject of "Frauds upon the Revenue," but it has not been used insidiously to bolster the fortunes of any public officer or officers. Neither has it been used to assail indiscriminately public servants in whom the country have confidence. I am sure the TIMES can have no sympathy with the attack upon members of Congress from Philadelphia or Boston, or upon the Federal officers of those cities generally. Many of them share the public confidence and are far from being venal and corrupt.

In regard to the competition between different sections of the country in the production of whisky it is to be supposed that it is regulated by the laws of trade, and that capital and the question of supply and demand have much to do with it. In the administration of a general law, I think no discriminations should be made for or against any section. New-York should be on a par with the West and vice versa.

If as your correspondent asserts, "early in the Summer our market was flooded with fraud whisky from Philadelphia, and probably would be to-day, had it not been for the prompt action of an official who had every barrel seized as soon as it arrived on the place," it is unfortunate that there is no public record of proceedings to condemn the large quantities said to be seized.

I hope, as your correspondent asserts, that the whisky trade is more legitimate now than in years past. Conceding this to be true, I dissent in toto from the conclusion that, in New-York, it is in consequence of the seal of any one official. It is but just and honorable to credit it to the workings of the new law in relation to the production of spirits and the efficiency and honesty of the gentlemen appointed to enforce its provisions in the different Collection Districts of the country by the present Administration.

Tragedy in Georgia.

A recent letter from Waynesboro, Burke County, Ga., to the Augusta Chronicle, gives the following as a true story:

"About the close of the late war there was a Mrs. J—— living in the lower section of this county. She was considered a lady of refinement, and known to be wealthy. She had a short time before lost her husband. She allowed a Dr. G—— to take up his abode under her roof. This doctor is a married man and the father, I believe, of four children. Nevertheless, his home he seems finally to have abandoned, together with his wife and children, and rumor has it that he and the young and rich widow lived as husband and wife, he taking possession of her houses, lands and cotton bales, driving fine horses, and living in an extravagant style. Such open-faced infamy was a little more than the good people of the neighborhood could bear with patience, and they repeatedly endeavored to procure testimony with which to take the case before the Grand Jury. But the difficulty of getting sufficient evidence to convict, prevented these good intentions being carried out. So things went on. The people talked [illegible] while the after a session of three days, during which they completed the business for which it was called together.

FLOOD IN KANSAS.

Loss of Life and Great Destruction of Property at Paola—Whole Families Drown in Their Houses in Trees or on Rafts—Thrilling Scenes and Incidents.

From the Leavenworth Times & Conservative, July 12.

Last Sunday morning Paola was the scene of wild excitement. On Saturday night about 10 o'clock a heavy rain commenced to fall, and continued in torrents for several hours. At daylight some citizens having property near the depot were aroused to receive the startling intelligence that Bull Creek was rising rapidly, threatening destruction to life and property in the bottom. On arriving at the depot a fearful sight met the eye. As far as vision extended the rising waters reached. The stores west of the depot, occupied by SNYDER & LARKIN, were surrounded by water, as well as the boarding-house and farm-house beyond. In the timber, close to the creek, men, women, children and animals were clinging to trees or clustering on points of high ground. The surface of the water was dotted with household articles, which had come down with the flood, and the water was still rising, while high above the timber the cries of distress from people in every direction. Almost without a warning, about daylight, the rushing water had forced families to leave their houses and take to trees or hastily-constructed rafts. No time was had for leaving valuables or household goods, and not unfrequently the unfortunates saw their houses and homes, the accumulation of years, disappear in the flood.

Every moment the water rose higher, and every moment of delay increased the danger to the devoted victims of the flood. But the citizens lost but little time, and soon had several rafts and skiffs on the inland sea. Brave men manned them, and soon the hastily-constructed life-boats began to land their precious freight amid the cheers of the enthusiastic multitude. Men stripped themselves and pushed little rafts for a long distance through drift-wood and brush to succor unfortunate people awaiting their assistance. By 9 o'clock all Paola was astir, each citizen doing his utmost to alleviate the general distress.

It was then ascertained that the storm had extended in every direction in the vicinity of the town. Big Creek was on the rampage; Bull Creek was a mile or two wide at any point, while Ten Mile Creek, on the north, was reported as having risen thirty feet. South and west of town boats were busy nearly all day patrolling the overflowed bottoms. By noon Paola looked like an island in an immense lake, but the waters had then reached their height and soon commenced to subside. By dark the flood had fallen a foot, by yesterday morning several feet more, and by the time this reaches our readers the flood at Paola will have become a thing of the past. Paola had had a fearful sensation, which we hope will never be repeated.

THE LOSS OF PROPERTY.

Two county bridges over Bull Creek, costing $1,600 and $9,800, respectively, were swept away. M. HAGEMAN, formerly of Leavenworth, lost over $5,000. His store had over six feet of water in it for over six hours. LATHAM, QUADE & CO., lumber dealers, had a small loss in lumber and lath floated off. COURLEY's boarding-house went down stream about 11 o'clock and became a wreck, with all its contents, in the brush on the creek bank. C. F. ULMER and L. TELLNER, who had camped for the night near the creek, were warned by their pony, but had no time to save their wagon. FAIR's ice-house floated off about noon. Mr. FAIR also had some loss in his restaurant, though he saved most of his goods. DIETZ's small red building, used as a restaurant, left its moorings just before noon. SHAW & MURLEN's mill, which was in course of construction, was badly damaged. Most of the wood work was washed out and floated away. The machinery, fresh from the Great Western Foundry, was on the ground, and was considerably damaged. Seventy-five hogs and one yoke of cattle were drowned. Their loss was about $5,000. WAGSTAFF & TORREY's hop-house was under water and received considerable damage. WEGANT & SOMMERVILLE saved very little from their bakery and restaurant, and their loss was heavy. The loss of the Missouri River, Fort Scott and Gulf Railroad is considerable. The bridge over Ten Mile was carried off and lodged about four hundred yards below. The track was badly washed in places, but will be repaired with dispatch. Though the round-house was pretty well filled water and the depot platforms were under water, the damage to the railroad property near Paola was but slight. Trains will run as usual and make all connections as advertised.

LOSS OF LIFE.

The only deaths reported up to the time of the departure of the train yesterday morning were those of two children of Mr. JOHN PRICE, on the bank of the Ten Mile Creek, at 2 A. M. Sunday. The creek was rising fast, and the mother was endeavoring to save her children. She had already placed one child in a tree and was returning for the other, when the log house fell to pieces, and they were washed to death. The family moved into the house Friday morning. The father, Section Boss SMITH, was at Columbia, across the river, during this fearful time.

INCIDENTS.

JAMES DAWSON, wife and four children, after passing several hours in a tree, were saved about 5:20 o'clock by a boat. Mr. WASHBURN, wife, son, daughter and domestic were rescued by a boat about 9 o'clock. Mr. TILSON, wife, two children and a lady visitor were taken from a frail raft by a boat, at 10 A. M. His house was south of town, but it was standing at last accounts. The ladies showed the greatest courage. While they were in this trying position, a log to which two men and a woman were clinging passed them, but their cries for help were not answered. JACOB MAGILL and wife were saved at an early hour. CHARLIE JONES rode and swam his horse out and brought Mrs. MAGILL in, but before he returned the water had raised so that Mr. MAGILL had to wait for a boat. MONROE HERRON, wife, two children and father were saved through an alarm given by the dog. ELISHA HOLCOMB, wife and four children were saved by the boat. M. A. DAWSON, northwest of town, with his wife and two children, waded through about daylight. ALBERT DEAN and wife, of the same neighborhood, also waded out. JIM MOORE, wife and two children, and ANDREW ROBERTS and wife, colored families, were rescued by the boat, but both lost their houses. ROBERT MATTHEWS, wife and two children and his sister and child waded out at daylight. Two women and eleven children, immigrants, were rescued about noon by Mr. Keene, COVERT and THOOMS. They were found in wagon boxes chained to trees. Their husbands had started out early to build a raft and were missing. Mr. DOLAN, wife and six children were saved early in the morning, but lost their house. A. MURLIN and two others were taken from the mill about noon. An Ohio family of four persons were warned by a neighbor just in time to escape, but their house was carried off.

The citizens vied with each other in rendering assistance, but none are deserving of especial notice. Messrs. DENNIS, ROOF and FINCH started on a raft to the relief of the parties at the mill, but by some mishap the raft upset and they had to climb trees till they were rescued by JOHN HIGGINS and E. H. SMITH, but not till the latter had experienced an upset. Messrs. COVERT and City Marshal HIGGINS were successful in saving thirteen lives. THOMAS FAGIN, F. FRANKBURN, T. FRANKBURN, J. KELLY and A. H. MINTURN, depot carpenters, rendered valuable service in removing FRANK FAIR's goods and in other ways. Messrs. CRILL, BURNHAM and another took duty in a skiff nearly all day and succeeded in doing much good. Sheriff RAINEY was on horseback all day taking an active part. B. SNYDER rendered valuable assistance everywhere. The citizens who gave shelter to the unfortunates did nobly, and among them we desire to notice Mr. HOFF, who took charge of the TILSON family, and JAMES LEONARD, who furnished some clothing.

DAMAGE IN OTHER LOCALITIES.

East of Spring Hill considerable damage was done. BILLIE HOLDEN's barn was struck by lightning and destroyed with a lot of grain. H. BEATTON had a horse killed by lightning. Mr. PRATT lost twenty acres of wheat, washed away. Tontaville Bridge, over a branch of Bull Creek, is gone. The saw-mill at Ten Mile Crossing was almost destroyed.

Great damage has been done to crops in the bottoms, and perhaps we will yet hear of further loss of life. Had it occurred a few hours earlier it would have been marked by a fearful loss of life.

Bordentown Female College.

The Commencement exercises of the Bordentown Female College, JNO. H. BRAKELEY, A. M., President, took place on Wednesday morning last. There was a good attendance, and the exercises were interesting and highly creditable to the institution. The essays read by the young ladies evinced talent and culture, the music was artistic and all the performances of the occasion were conducted in good taste and seemed pleasing to the audience. The annual sermon to the graduating class was preached this year by Rev. HENRY BAKER, of Princeton, N. J., and the address before the Alumni Association was delivered by Rev. W. J. STEVENSON, of Philadelphia.

Naval Nomenclature.

The protest against the recent changes in the names of vessels of our navy, unanimously adopted by the Maine Historical Society, at its meeting in Brunswick on Thursday, is as follows:

WHEREAS, The late Secretary of the Navy of the United States has changed the names of certain of our armed vessels from the important and appropriate Indian terms to those of a fanciful and commonplace character. And

WHEREAS, The policy of our Government and good taste alike demand that our national navy be bequeathed to our posterity the euphonious names used by the Aboriginal inhabitants of this country, both for their historical interest and their euphonious, with the original occupants of our soil, and as their successors—it appears to this Society a subject of deep regret that any officer of our Government with a sweep of his pen should endeavor to obliterate from our national navy the beautiful and cherished names given to our public ships on wise considerations, and which serve to perpetuate the terms appropriately applied by the native inhabitants to their streams, their mountains, their coverts,

AMUSEMENTS.

Theatrical.

MISS BATEMAN'S LATEST SUCCESS.

CHARLES LAMB's delightful idea of the law of compensation will never lose its value. "You come very late, Mr. LAMB," said his superior at the India House. "Yes, Sir," stammered LAMB; "but then I go away very early." We complain to England of the numbers of bad actors we receive from her. "True," retorts England; "but consider how many good ones you send us." And England, not content with even this ambiguous explanation, exhibits disclosures because we sometimes want our theatrical treasures back again. Miss BATEMAN, for example, so seems anxious her determination to return to her native country than the London dramatic Press, including, for the occasion, poor old Punch, becomes morose, and tells her "she will be sorry one of these days." The immediate occasion for this outburst is the remarkable success achieved by the lady in the new domestic drama written for her by Mr. TOM TAYLOR, entitled "Mary Warner," in the height of which success she withdraws to prepare for her American pilgrimage. There appears to be no question that the effect produced by Miss BATEMAN'S performance in this piece exceeds that of any of her previous representations, excepting Leah. The story itself, as it is revealed by the newspapers, possesses powerful elements, and we are assured that Mr. TAYLOR has put these together with considerable skill. Of positive originality there appears to be little. According to the descriptions, the principal effect of the first act is nearly identical with one in a well-known Irish drama, while that of the last is a repetition—naturally in a new form—of the touching scene of the child in "Leah." But we do not look for perfect novelty nowadays; or, if we do, we do not get it. The best we can expect is a combination of old materials, familiar or otherwise, sufficiently dexterous to escape the accusation and the unpleasant consequences of linked plagiarism long drawn out. The special attention of the London critics, therefore, is directed to the performance of Miss BATEMAN, and not to the play, which is dismissed with the statement that it is "precisely adapted to her genius, and meets at the same time all the requirements which can fairly be imposed on an author whose chief end is to provide a new and striking part for a great leading actress." The compliments bestowed upon our countrywoman are so unanimous and so obviously sincere, and at the same time so critically expressed, that it is quite impossible to believe them unfounded. It is thought by some that the personal praise is exaggerated, because of the less enthusiastic approval accorded to the drama; but we see very little ground for this belief. Mr. TAYLOR's last half-dozen adventures, it must be remembered, had been failures, each a little worse than its predecessor; whereas Miss BATEMAN, if we may trust competent testimony, has really been gaining strength and artistic amplitude from day to day. But we shall know all about it in due season. "Mary Warner" will be a prominent feature of the coming engagement at Booth's Theatre.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

After the run of "The Child Stealer," which considering the weather, attracts remarkably large audiences, it is expected that "Satan in Paris" and "The Sea of Ice" will successively be brought out; these to be followed about the 20th of August by a revival of "Patrie," a drama containing more elements of popularity and success than any yet presented at this establishment. Miss LUCILLE WESTERN will probably sustain the principal feminine character.

BENEFIT PERFORMANCE.

Mr. EDWARD EDDY benefits by the afternoon and evening performance at Wood's Museum this day. He will figure in both representations as Chiffonier in "The Rag-picker of Paris," and will doubtless be greeted on his appearance in either by the large and friendly audience his worth and service as an actor entitle him to look for with certainty.

Fine Arts.

Mr. EBININGER, one of the foremost of New-York artists, has made several noticeable drawings, which have been photographed by KURZ, and published by Mr. PILSBINGTON JACKSON, of this City. Two of them are on striking incidents of the war,—SHERIDAN's famous ride and Admiral FARRAGUT in the rigging of his frigate at the memorable battle in Mobile Harbor. The third and latest published is called "Taking the Reins," and represents General GRANT and Mr. BONNER drawn by Dexter, the celebrated trotting horse. It is a picture full of spirit and action, and Mr. BONNER indorses the portrait of Dexter as perfect. These drawings have been photographed in the best manner by Mr. KURZ, and form a very interesting series.

FRANG & CO., of Boston, have just published a series of six views in Central Park in an excellent style of chromo-lithography. For persons whose means cannot afford the luxury of oil-paintings or water-colors, nothing could be more acceptable than these carefully-executed chromos, in which the touch and texture and general style of oil-paintings are so cleverly imitated as to deceive any but a practiced eye. Their general effect is very pleasing, and they will make many abodes more cheerful by their presence on the parlor walls.

THE KENTUCKY NEGROES.

Their State Educational Convention in Louisville.

The Kentucky State Educational Convention met in Louisville on Wednesday, and was called to order by General BURKLE, who briefly stated its object. Nearly every county in the State was represented, the delegates numbering about two hundred and fifty. Rev. H. J. YOUNG was appointed Chairman. After Major DELANEY, of South Carolina, colored, had addressed the Convention, a long series of resolutions was adopted, of which the following are the most important:

Resolved, That the time has fully come for the State of Kentucky to understand that all things are done away and new things come to pass; that slavery is dead, and as far as the National Government is concerned, all distinctions founded thereon, and that they should purge their statute books of all laws founded on slavery or difference of color, and place the State where she rightfully belongs, at the head of the column of States which are received that this glorious country, beyond all question, shall be the "land of the free."

Resolved, That we hail with joy the certain ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment to the National Constitution, and pledge ourselves to uphold with our ballot, as we have always upheld with our prayers, and, when opportunity offered, with our bayonets, the glorious Union of States, through whose power we are elevated to the high dignity of American citizens.

Resolved, That we demand, in the name of justice, equal and equal education for the colored youth of our State.

Resolved, That all men without distinction of race, color or condition of mind, enjoy the sacred right of testimony in the Courts of Law, without which the right there is no adequate protection for life, liberty or property, all of which are guaranteed to the individual by the Constitution, that instrument declaring that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

Resolved, That it is the duty of the colored people to contribute to the support of the State, and to see that they may become an independent, self-supporting part of the American people.

Resolved, That we return thanks to the American Missionary Association, the Freedmen's Aid Commission and the Protestant Episcopal Aid Society, that have established and supported schools in this State, and through them we convey our gratitude to the generous people of the North, who have contributed money and sent teachers to help us educate our children.

The other resolutions ask admission for colored paupers into the poorhouses of the State; instorse the Freedmen's Savings and Trust Company Bank; recommend Berea College, in Madison County, for opening its doors to colored women; thank the teachers in their schools, and highly compliment General O. O. HOWARD and General BEN. F. BUTLER for the manner in which they have discharged the duties of their office. Letters from Judge STOWE, of Cincinnati, and Frank ROBINSON were read. The latter said that when slavery existed their race could exist without education, but to-day ignorance means for them destitution, degradation, death, destruction. An evening session was held, at which addresses were made, and the Convention adjourned until the next day.

The Convention was continued until Friday, and on that day, after an exciting debate, the subject of the mode of educating the colored race was, in view of the present anomalous condition of affairs, tabled until the annual session. An educational journal was authorized.

Yesterday afternoon the Convention adjourned

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

Yesterday, at West Roselle, N. J., Messrs. S. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO. had a large and quite successful sale. The train left promptly and with a very large party. Unfortunately a number of not very desirable persons managed to get aboard the train. Properly they should have been expelled, but owing possibly to the inefficiency of the Police, they were allowed to accompany the excursionists to the place of sale. The lunch, as provided by the owners, was almost extravagant, but the management was in far from perfect that while a large crowd of outside and undesirable persons were by force of their own impudence and self-assurance well cared for, many desirable parties and bona-fide bidders were neglected. For this the Police were to a very great extent responsible. They looked on stupidly, saw members of very irregular acts committed, and interfered regularly after all occasion for their services had ceased. The sale was, despite these difficulties, quite successful. The prices obtained were very satisfactory, and the class of purchasers are quite desirable.

Messrs. THEO. F. HAY and E. RICE, principal owners of the property, were unremitting in their attentions, and contributed in a very great degree to the success of the sale. At the lunch table the jolly, jovial face of Mr. HAY was as a smile of gladness to all. His presence every where brought contentment. The ladies clung to him, and he saw that all their wants were promptly supplied. Mr. RICE was not behind, and to his kindly services many are indebted for a day's enjoyment.

It is unfortunately true that quite a number of people attended the sale. For this the Police are entirely to blame. A sufficient number were engaged to prevent any annoyance, but they were either more than ordinarily stupid, or overjaggered and over-fed, for, while they paid full attention to these two departments, they neglected all others. There were several occasions for their interference, but, though one or two were on hand, one heavy black-whiskered one in particular, who was more thick-headed than the rest, they were worse than useless, and seemed rather to assist the disturbing element than otherwise. At future sales it is to be hoped that either these men will be instructed in their duties or others engaged.

E. A. LAWRENCE, Auctioneer.

PEREMPTORY SALE OF

Valuable Real Estate in the City of Brooklyn.

Supreme Court Sale, in Partition—under the direction of CHARLES CONDIT, Esq., Referee, Estate of ELIA LEWIS, deceased.

LAWRENCE, DAILEY & FLEURY will sell at auction, on MONDAY, the 19th day of July, 1869, at 12 o'clock, at the Court-house, in the City of Brooklyn, Kings County, N. Y., the following improved and unimproved real estate:

The fine house and lot on the west side of Henry-st., known as No. 174 Henry-st., 25 feet, southerly from the corner of Joralemon. The lot has a frontage on Henry-st. of 25 feet, and runs through to Garden-st., (having in depth 131 feet 6 inches,) with a frontage on Garden-street of 25 feet. The house is three story, attic and basement, built of brick, with brown-stone front, and has on the frontage the whole width of lot on Henry-st., by 44 feet 6 inches in depth, and is the most thorough and complete manner throughout, with every modern convenience. On the rear of the lot and fronting on Garden-st. is a large and well-built two-story brick stable, 25 feet front on Garden-st. by 80 feet in depth.

Also, four handsome three-story basement and attic brick houses, with brown-stone trimmings, finely situated on the southerly side of President-st., 76 feet from the corner of Hicks, and known as Nos. 114, 116, 118 and 120 President-st., each with a frontage on President-st. of 20 feet, by 100 feet in depth, with extension of 10 feet, built in the most substantial manner throughout, and containing all modern improvements.

Also, the house and lot on southerly side of President-st., 160 feet easterly from the corner of Hicks, and known as No. 119 President-st. The house is three story, built of wood, roomy and convenient. The lot has a frontage on President-st. of 23 feet by 100 feet deep on each side.

Also, a vacant lot on President-st., 121 feet 2 inches easterly from the corner of Hicks, with a frontage on President-st. of 23 feet 4 inches by 100 feet deep on the westerly side of Hicks, adjoining the 114 wooden house.

Also, the three vacant lots handsomely situated on the west side of Henry-st., 80 feet from the corner of President. These lots are each 25 feet 4 inches front and rear, by 104 feet in depth. On the rear of two of these lots is a good frame stable.

JOHNSON & MILLER'S

GREAT ISLIP SALE OF VILLA PLOTS, WEEKLY AT 2 P.M. of the farm formerly belonging to A. J. Bergen, Esq., on the premises, TUESDAY, JULY 20.

HOW TO GO.—All who have been fortunate enough to secure tickets will, if they study their comfort and convenience, on the morning of the sale find their way by one of the many lines of the home railroads to the Thirty-second-street station of the South Side Railroad, and there seat themselves in the cars which will be in waiting by 9¾ o'clock.

Cars will also leave foot of South Eighth-st., Williamsburg, connecting as above, at 9¾ o'clock, for the accommodation of such as are unable to go as above advised. New-Yorkers must allow at least 15 minutes for crossing the ferries.

The auctioneers have limited the number of tickets to 500. They are determined to make this the most select and delightful excursion of the season. All suitable facilities will, without the least doubt, be elected from the cars by efficient detectives. Spring, old lunch, prepared by a well-known City caterer, will be ready on arrival of train.

A PACIFIC RAILWAY

GOLD LOAN

$6,500,000.

We beg leave to announce that we have accepted the agency of the

KANSAS PACIFIC RAILWAY CO.

For the sale of its

New Seven Per Cent. Thirty-Year Gold Loan, Free of Tax.

This Loan amounts to $6,500,000,

First Mortgage Land-Grant and Sinking Fund Bonds,

secured upon the extension of the Railway from present terminus, in Kansas, to Denver, Colorado, a distance of 287 miles, of which twelve miles are completed, and the rest is under construction. It is also a mortgage upon the rolling stock and franchise of this first-class railway now running through the State of Kansas.

And is successful operation for 457 miles west of the Missouri River, and earning already enough to meet all of its expenses and existing obligations, besides

More than the Interest upon this new Loan.

In addition to this the bonds are also secured by a first mortgage of the Government Land Grant of three million acres, extending in alternate sections on either side of the track, from the 300th mile post in Kansas to Denver. The proceeds of the sale of these lands are to be invested by the Trustees in the 7 per cent. Bonds themselves up to 110, or in United States Bonds as

A Sinking Fund for the redemption of the Bonds.

The lands embrace some of the finest portions of the magnificent Territory of Colorado, including a coal field and pinery. The Company also holds as an asset another tract of

Three Millions of Acres in the State of Kansas, and although not pledged as a security for this loan, their possession adds largely to the Company's wealth and credit. We estimate the Value of the Company's Property, Covered by This Mortgage, at $28,000,000, Net, While the Loan is Merely $6,500,000.

The bonds have

THIRTY YEARS TO RUN,

from May 1, 1869, and will pay

SEVEN PER CENT. INTEREST IN GOLD,

semi-annually, on May 1 and Nov. 1, and are

Free From Government Taxation,

the Company paying the tax.

The Principal of the loan is made Payable, in Gold, in the City of New-York, but each coupon will

Be Payable in Frankfort, London, or New-York, at the option of the holder, without notice, at the following rates:

On $1,000 Bond in New-York..$35 (gold) each half year.
On $1,000 Bond in London.....37 5s. 10d. each half year.
On $1,000 Bond in Frankfort...57 florins and 50 kreutzers each half year.

The agents of the loan, before accepting the trust, had the condition of the road, and the country through which it runs, carefully examined. They are happy to give the best an emphatic endorsement as a

FIRST-CLASS INVESTMENT

in every respect, perfectly sure, and in some essentials even Better than Government Securities.

The bonds will be sold for the present at 96, and accrued Interest, both in Currency,

the agents reserving the right to advance the rate.

The attention of investors is invited to these well-secured bonds, which we recommend as one of the most profitable investments in the market.

Gold and Government Securities taken in payment at their market value, without commission.

SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

OF THE

Danville, Urbana, Bloomington and Pekin Railroad Company

OF ILLINOIS,

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD AT THE FARMERS' LOAN AND TRUST COMPANY, NEW-YORK. COUPONS PAYABLE APRIL AND OCTOBER.

FREE OF GOVERNMENT TAX.

Length of road, 117 5-100 miles from Danville west to Pekin, on the line of the oldest and principal wagon road in the State. Total cost, $40,000 per mile, less than $18,000 per mile, secured by a first mortgage on the entire property of the Company.

Capital stock, $4,000,000, a large portion of which has been expended.

The grading and bridging for the entire line have been completed from funds realized from stock subscriptions, and are now ready for the iron, which is being laid as rapidly as possible.

The road will be consolidated with the line from Danville to Indianapolis, making a line of 210 miles. Its Indianapolis connections will be made with all the through lines to New-York and Baltimore. At Danville with the Toledo, Cincinnati and Baltimore.

It has also western connections with the Mississippi and Missouri River and Union and Pacific Railroad.

Having been at much labor in the sale of these bonds, we will give every assistance and the utmost information, after doing to our customers and investors generally, as a sound, safe and desirable security for their money. We will, without the least doubt, be elected, after doing to our customers and investors generally, as a sound, safe and desirable security for their money. It has received the endorsement of Illinois, a State well known for its generous agricultural resources and great increase in wealth and population; and through numerous large and thickening tributaries, with its main line, it has valuable railroad connections, making it a through line and a first-class road in every respect.

Considering of the value of railway property in the same may be formed by looking over the statistics of the earnings of all the lines now completed.

The stock of the Rock Island, the Illinois Central, the Chicago and Alton, and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Roads, are all selling at from above par to nearly par, while none of the six are more favorably located, and the competition of them all is much greater than that the road can have. There is no reason why the stock of this road may not sell as high as either of the above. The Bonds are convertible into stock at par, at the option of the holder, and may be registered in the name of the owner at any time if desired.

We have personally thoroughly examined the road and country along the line, and we stake our reputation in saying no better investment can be made in any First-class Bond.

At the present prices they pay 10 per cent. currency, over 15 per cent. since that the same amount invested in Five-twenty Bonds, besides the advantages of better free of tax, and the prospect of a speedy advance in the stock of the road on completion, into which they may be converted.

Price, 85 and accrued interest, both in currency. Bonds forwarded by express, free of charge.

Government Bonds and Gold received at their market value in exchange without commission.

The Cuban Camp on Gardiner's Island to be Invaded.

Hostile Expeditions to be Intercepted at the Narrows by a Revenue Cutter—The Considerations from the President.

The Government is determined on securing a strict compliance with the Neutrality laws, for which purpose Marshal BARLOW has taken measures intended to effectually disband the mustering forces on Gardiner's Island, in Long Island Sound, distant about ninety miles from this City. A camp numbering between one hundred and two hundred men has existed at that place ever since the capture of the Cadarine. Whiting, and the arrest of a part of General Garmendia, about two weeks ago, when object was to embark for Cuba as soon as another vessel was provided for their conveyance. The men were under command of Colonel RYAN and Lieutenant-Colonel CURRIER, who endeavored to establish a regular military encampment and secure obedience to their orders, which they only partially accomplished. Means of subsistence were furnished by the Cuban Junta, who sent a big boat to the island at a considerable cost. Marshal BARLOW being authorized to inquire into this hostile camp, dispatched the revenue cutter Mahoning to the island on Tuesday last, with Deputy Marshals GARDE, WARNLOW and CHERRIN, and twelve marines from the Navy-yard on board. The officials on arriving at the island visited the filibusters, holding a sort of parley with them. They requested them to disperse and return to the City, and promised to help them to do so. The filibusters were found to be very obstinate in their desire to remain on the island, and were subsequently left by the Deputy Marshals, who reported the result of their mission by telegraph. After hearing the result Marshal BARLOW concluded more decisive and prompt measures against the encampment. He obtained the services of a force of thirty-two marines, under Lieutenant BERRIN, who were dispatched to the island with authority to break up the camp and to seize on the men if they offered any resistance. The invading force departed on Thursday afternoon, but as yet no information has been received from them. It is not probable that they will be able to get hold of the leaders. On Wednesday the revenue cutter Jewell was ordered to the Narrows to watch for and overhaul a certain vessel which was suspected of belonging to the filibusters. The cutter carried eighteen men, together with Deputy Marshal CROWLEY. The party returned last evening, having failed to see any indications of an expedition.

The commissions which have been received from the President by the Marshal and District-Attorney, empowering them to sustain the Neutrality act, read as follows:

Whereas, in order to the execution of the prohibitions and penalties of the said act, and for the purpose of preventing the carrying on from the territory of any enterprise from the territories of the United States against any nation with which the United States are at peace, it is necessary to empower some person civil, or in the military or naval service of said act is provided.

Now, therefore, know ye, that reposing special trust and confidence in the integrity, prudence and ability of Hon. ALEXANDER BARLOW, Marshal of the United States for the Southern District of New-York, and of FRANCIS G. BARLOW, Marshal of the United States for the said Southern District, and of each and either of them, I do hereby, in the exercise of the power and authority conferred upon me by the said act, and of each other power and authority as I may have in the premises, authorize and empower the said Marshals, their deputies, and the officers of the Army and Navy of the United States, or any of them, to employ such part of the land or naval forces of the United States, or of the militia thereof, as may be necessary for that purpose, in order to the execution of the prohibitions and penalties of the said act, and for the purpose of preventing the carrying on of any such expedition or enterprise.

THE TURF.

Trotting Match Between Goldsmith Maid and George Palmer for One Thousand Dollars, on the Fashion Course, L. I.—Goldsmith Maid the Winner in Three Heats—Time—2:33½, 2:34, 2:34½.

The match between the two famous fast trotters, Goldsmith Maid and George Palmer, for $1,000, mile heats, three in five, in harness, came off on the above course yesterday afternoon. There was not so large an assemblage present as the celebrity of the two horses for speed justified our expecting, but it comprised most of the prominent patrons of the trotting turf. The day, although intensely hot, was favorable for fast time, the track also being in capital order. Goldsmith Maid, driven by her trainer and part owner, BUDD DOBLE, had the call in the betting at long odds, $100 to $25 being the current quotation.

CHARLES CHAMPLIN trained and drove Mr. ERASTUS CORNING's brown gelding, who looked in splendid condition, and had been tried so highly a few mornings before, that the party entertained strong hopes of winning the race, despite the long odds offered against their horse.

FIRST HEAT.—After wrestling a long time on scoring, the word was at last given; Palmer getting the best of the send-off. Before the turn was reached, Goldsmith Maid had drawn in front, and steadily maintaining her advantage, was leading two clear lengths at the quarter-pole; time—34½ seconds. This rate, she did not, was still further increased on the second quarter, the half-mile pole was passed by Goldsmith Maid with Palmer right on her wheel, in 1:07¼, being the fastest half-mile time ever trotted, except by Mr. BONNER's renowned "King of the Turf," the immortal Dexter, who, in his great match with Ethan Allen and running mate, trotted the first half mile in 1:06. Commodore VANDERBILT's horse, Mountain Boy, in a trial, with a running horse to excite him, trotted a half mile on this course in 1:07½; being a quarter second slower than in this race. On the Flushing end, the speed continued wonderfully fast, Palmer steadily gaining and collaring the Maid. They trotted together beautifully for some distance, and as the three-quarter pole was passed, the Maid had her neck in front. Coming up the stretch, Palmer broke, and Goldsmith Maid, coming away, won the heat by two lengths in 2:33¼.

SECOND HEAT.—One hundred to ten was now the current betting on Goldsmith Maid winning. She led three lengths to the quarter-pole in 35¾ seconds, after passing which she broke, but did not lose much, for there were still two lengths between them at the half-mile pole, passed in 1:08½; here Palmer made a break, and before CHAMPLIN had him steady to a trot, the favorite had opened a gap of six lengths, which she maintained throughout, and won in a jog in 2:34.

THIRD HEAT.—No betting. Goldsmith Maid led two lengths to the quarter-pole in 35½ seconds, but Palmer gained rapidly on the backstretch, and both were on even terms as they passed the half-mile pole in 1:10¾. The Maid broke on the Flushing end, but DOBLE quickly steadied her, and maintaining his lead throughout, came home a winner of the heat and race by four lengths in 2:34½.

Case of Alleged Malpractice.

Dr. COOK, of Spring-street, was called a few days since to attend a Mrs. HONORA RYAN, who was employed as a domestic in the family of a Mr. DAVIS, at No. 112 Prince-street. The physician, suspecting the nature of her ailment, asked her if she was not pregnant, but she indignantly denied it, and dismissing COOK called in another physician who, after examination of her symptoms, declared her to be suffering from Asiatic cholera. Disinfectants were liberally used in the house, and the physician continued to act as on this declared theory until Thursday night, when the patient died, and yesterday the body was removed by direction of the Board of Health to the Morgue, in consequence of a communication from Dr. COOK stating his belief that the woman was the victim of malpractice. Coroner FLYNN assuming jurisdiction of the case, Dr. SEIBE, at a late hour last evening, made a post-mortem examination of the body, which resulted in fully establishing that death was due to medical malpractice. After this discovery the further investigation of the case was adjourned in order to give time to find the necessary witnesses and to arrest the guilty physician. The deceased woman was a native of Ireland, aged about 40 years, and was the wife of a soldier in the regular army, whose term of service has just expired, and who is daily expected to arrive from Fort Harrison, Omaha.

Affrays of Various Character.

About 8 o'clock last evening, THOMAS HENSHAW and JAMES CORCORAN, both residents of "Dutch Hill," became engaged in a fight, in Portloch-street, between First and Second avenues, and the wife of HENSHAW interfering in favor of her husband, she was attacked by CORCORAN with a knife and received a severe stab wound in the left side. CORCORAN was immediately afterward arrested and was locked up in the East Thirty-fifth-street Police Station.

A little later in the evening MILES MORAN and PATRICK CONWAY sought amusement and excitement by entering the saloon No. 7 James-street and attacking the proprietor, GEORGE HORN, but finding more than their match, they were quickly overcome with serious hurts, and were arrested and taken to the One-eighth Police Station, where they were looked up after their wounds were dressed.

SUDDEN CASE OF DEATH.

The Stage Carpenter of the Bowery Theatre Dies from Unnatural Causes—A Police Surgeon Attends him, but Fails to Report the Case to the Coroner.

On Thursday evening a rumor was circulated that one of the employes at the Bowery Theatre had been killed that afternoon by falling from a tight rope. Later we were advised of the death of a scene-shifter, who met his fate by attempting to run forty-two times around the stage, or one mile, in seven minutes—which had been realized by an English pedestrian named JAMES SMITH. We sent a reporter at 11 P. M. the same evening to ascertain something authentic about the affair. He met Mr. FERLEIGH, the manager of the theatre, on the sidewalk, and asked him if any accident by tight rope or otherwise had occurred. The gentleman evidently heard only the first part of the question, and replied, "We have no tight-rope performances above theatre, and had no accident." Reiterating his question, and stating at the same time that he was a representative of the NEW-YORK TRIBUNE, our reporter received a similar answer.

Yesterday, however, another reporter, whose duty it was to visit the Registrar of Vital Statistics' office, learned that a man named John O'CONNELL, aged 32 years, residing in Cherry-street, between Market and Catharine, who was employed as a stage carpenter at the Bowery Theatre, died on the 14th from the effects of heat. Another reporter was dispatched to the house of the parents of the deceased. A brother, who is likewise employed at the Bowery Theatre, gave the following account of JOHN's death:

STATEMENT OF THE BROTHER OF DECEASED.

On the afternoon of the 14th we were both engaged at our usual avocation—that is, preparing the stage for the evening's performances. We had finished and were amusing ourselves by looking at Jas. SMITH, a champion pedestrian, who was walking around the stage forty-two times in seven minutes, thereby accomplishing a mile. When he was done the bystanders said no one in the theatre could accomplish the same feat in the same time, even by running. Mr. FERLEIGH was present. Several persons offered bets. My brother, who was a hearty young fellow and a good runner, said he could do it. Accordingly he pulled off his coat and accomplished the task. Putting on his cap, he started down stairs with me, with the intention of going home. When we reached the carpenter's room he said, "I feel sick," and he staggered and fell into my arms. I said to him, "What's the matter with you, Johnny? Lie down on the bench and I'll fetch you a glass of water;" which I did. After drinking it he became still more faint and pale, and said, "Take me home to mother; I am dying." As he said these words I became more frightened, and hallooed for help. Some of the boys came, and, at my direction, got a carriage and took JOHNNY home. He grew worse on the road to Cherry-street, and by the time we arrived was only fit to lie in bed. We sent for a doctor immediately, and Dr. ANDERSON, in Mott-street, came.

The reporter asked O'CONNELL if that was the the Dr. ANDERSON, Police Surgeon at the Tombs.

He answered, "I believe it is, Sir." To continue, the young man said: "The Doctor prescribed whisky and some other things for my poor brother, but it was no use. In half an hour he died. He was buried on Thursday."

MANAGER FERLEIGH'S STATEMENT.

An English pedestrian was showing his skill on the stage on the afternoon of the 14th, by walking forty-two times around it, or one mile, in seven minutes. On seeing this, some of the boys declared that there was not a man present who could do the mile in the same time, even though he ran. JOHN O'CONNELL, a stage employe, said that he could, and attempted it, accomplishing the mile in eight minutes. We went down stairs, and took the boys into the Atlantic Garden to have a lager. While we were drinking, JOHN O'CONNELL came in, and refused to drink, saying that he did not feel well. He went home, as far as I know, with his brother. On Thursday I heard that he was dead. I understood he died of disease of the heart.

This was all Mr. FERLEIGH had to say about the affair. When a Police Surgeon attends the deathbed of a man who dies unnaturally, it is desirable, if it is not customary, to call in the Coroner. Nothing was known at the Coroner's office of this matter—at least no action was taken by that officer.

Yesterday's Heat.

The long-delayed heat of this Summer fell upon our City yesterday with almost insufferable intensity, recalling to mind the hot and fatal days of a year ago.

To keep cool or comfortable was next to impossible, and activity on the streets declined as the mercury rose. At noon the thermometer in the shade stood at 92°, and at 2 o'clock the sun was simply intolerable. The effect on men and horses, who were obliged to be exposed, was severe and prostrating, but happily no such number of sun-strokes are recorded as occurred on the same day last year.

The great heat and the number of deaths produced by it thereon, are fresh in the minds of the public, and it is to be hoped that if such a season is upon us, the utmost precaution will be taken by every one to guard against its fatal effects. Thus far the Summer has been unusually moderate and enjoyable, and the suddenness of the change yesterday and the day before has probably been felt all the more. The following table shows the hottest days since 1825, and it will be noticed that twelve of the seventeen have come prior to this date. In fact, statistics prove that there are fewer hot days in August than in one or July, although most people believe the reverse to be true. August has from time immemorial been the "vacation" month of all classes, and the month of least business activity, which may account for the supposition that it is the warmest.

DANIEL MCCARTY, a laborer, was prostrated by the heat yesterday afternoon in One Hundred and Twenty-fifth-street, near Third-avenue. He was taken to his home in One Hundred and Twentieth-street on a stretcher.

JOHN WILLIAMSON, a carman, residing in Williamsburg, was sun-struck yesterday in Fulton-street, near Broadway. He was taken to the Beekman-street Police Station, and afterward removed to Bellevue Hospital.

JOHN REAGAN, a laborer, at work on the new Central-avenue, Yonkers, was overcome by the heat at 11 o'clock in the morning and almost immediately died. The Coroner was notified and an inquest will be held.

MRS. WILLIAM H. CLYDE, a resident of New-Orleans, on a visit to this City, was found in the street yesterday afternoon prostrated by the heat, and was taken to the Twenty-ninth-street Police Station, whence she was sent to Bellevue Hospital in an ambulance.

Effects of the Heat in Brooklyn.

HUGH WALSH, a carpenter, was overcome by the heat while at work on a building in Court-street yesterday afternoon. He was removed to the Long Island College Hospital. JOHN REID, an employe at the Navy-yard, was similarly affected, at the yard. After being attended by a physician, he was taken to his home, No. 440 Houston-street, New-York.

The Weather in Other Places.

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 16.

To-day has been the warmest of the season, the thermometer in the shade ranging from 88° at 9 in the morning, to 96° at 2 in the afternoon, and 101° at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Several cases of sun-stroke of man and horse are reported, but none fatal.

RICHMOND, Va., Friday, July 16.

The thermometer indicates 105 in the shade.

GEORGE FROST, a citizen, died of sun-stroke, being the first fatal case since the heated term.

NORWICH, Conn., Friday, July 16.

The thermometer indicated 97 in the shade to-day, and there were three cases of sun-stroke.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Friday, July 16.

The thermometer indicated 77 at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The German Republican Central Committee.

This organization met last evening at the Steuben House, when Mr. MARCUS OTTENBOURG presided, and a considerable amount of business was transacted, inasmuch as an adjournment for the Summer vacation was intended. The School Committee was discharged, and the agitation of the German School Reform movement left entirely in the hands of the lately-formed German Central School Committee. Action was also taken to resume the agitation against the "present" Excise law. On this subject a report is to be heard from Supervisor WILLMAR. The Committee adjourned subject to the call of the Chair.

EXCITEMENT IN POUGHKEEPSIE.

A Mob Threaten the Sheriff of Dutchess County.

THE MILITIA ORDERED OUT.

Sketch of the Operations of the Dutchess County Railroad Contractors—Serious Trouble Feared.

From Our Own Reporter.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Friday, July 16, 1858.

For two days nothing else hardly has been talked about in this city but the shooting of WALTER WELCH, a sub-contractor on the Poughkeepsie and Eastern Railroad, whose hands they were at Pleasantville. Under this head about ninety men at work. For them drinking yesterday, the day on which the operative was shot, was pay day; and when they learned that he had gone and carried away with him $7,000, from which their wages were to be paid, they became enraged, left off work, and gathered in knots about the village saloons, drank and swearing vengeance on WELCH. Among the determined was an Irishman, JACK MCDONALD, who took care of WELCH's horses. This man was greatly excited, and was heard in his native tongue cursing and threatening by turns. Whatever was intended was not known on the works at the "Middle Connection." He was fast already drove a fine horse and carriage, and made companions of fast men and women. Some time ago he purchased a horse and wagon from FREDERICK MCCORD, of Pleasant Valley, but never paid for it. As soon as MCCORD found out that WELCH had absconded he caused a writ of attachment to be issued for his horse and wagon, which was left in the possession of MCDONALD, but the latter positively refused to give it up till his wages as hostler were paid. Twice on Thursday Sheriff KENWORTHY endeavored to take the property without success. The remainder of the laborers, seeing that MCDONALD was getting along so finely in his resistance, made common cause with him, and to the number of 75 or 100 organized thoroughly, and after adopting a signal by which they might be called together, resolved to stand by each other to the last in resisting the Sheriff in his attempts to take the property. Their action, as stated, was to enforce the payment for their work, which was performed last month, and MCDONALD's for his money as hostler.

Thus matters stood till this morning, when Sheriff KENWORTHY, accompanied by Officer BUSH, again went to the valley, where they found JACK MCDONALD and another Irishman in the barn, with the horse and wagon in question. A brief interview followed, when the Sheriff served the attachment paper and demanded the property in the name of the law. Upon, and immediately the barn was surrounded by squads of Irishmen, some of whom were intoxicated. The Sheriff informed those about him that he came there as Sheriff of Dutchess County to do his duty as such, and to take possession of the horse and wagon. He told the laborers that if they would remain quiet and orderly they would all get their pay in a day or two, and that he only came among them to uphold the law. His remarks were received with derisive shouts, and then one of the mob said something which did not reach the ear of MCDONALD, when the latter advanced and stuck his fist under the offender's nose. A fight ensued immediately, and, though the Sheriff, KENWORTHY, and Officer BUSH were in the thickest of it, they were not hit.

All hopes of effecting his purpose having fled, Sheriff KENWORTHY came back to Poughkeepsie, and, after consultation, ordered out Company D, Scott Guard, forty men. The order was obeyed with alacrity by Captain HAUBENSTEIN, and the military are now assembling at the armory. There is much excitement on the streets.

It is rumored at the Court-house that Captain or Colonel SMITH, one of WELCH's partners, and CHAS. GAYLORD, the clerk, have also left the city. Certain it is that though both have been diligently sought for to-day, they have not turned up. Mr. DICKINSON, the Chief Engineer of the Poughkeepsie and Eastern Railroad, and Mr. DAVIS, one of the head contractors, assure me that the laborers will not lose a cent, but that all will be paid as soon as the true state of affairs are ascertained. Large numbers of citizens are preparing to go to Pleasant Valley this afternoon whatever may transpire, Sheriff KENWORTHY is a determined man, and is acting with a full knowledge of the law. His course is generally commended by all law-abiding citizens. It is hardly possible that the military will be ready to march before 8 o'clock to-morrow morning. Reports from Pleasant Valley are to the effect that the Irishmen are rendezvousing there from along the line of the road.

Fatal Accident.

Last evening WM. SMITH, a night watchman, about 50 years of age, employed on the bark Sandy Hook, lying at Pier No. 8 East River, in crossing the deck stumbled, and falling into the lower hold, was instantly killed. The remains were cared for by the Police, and the Coroner being notified, an inquest will be held this morning.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

New-York.

The brig Spring Bird, lying at Pier No. 46 East River, and belonging to PIERSON & Co., No. 17 South-street, took fire about 4 o'clock yesterday, and was so damaged that $1,500 will be required for repairs. She was fully loaded at the time with coffee and hides, but the cargo escaped uninjured, except some little damage from water. The fire originated in the cabin from the explosion of a kerosene lamp.

MICHAEL PURDEY, a laborer, 35 years of age, yesterday morning fell from the roof of the retort-house of the Gas Works in Eighteenth-street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues, and fractured the base of the skull. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

LOUIS ROTHCHILD, of No. 845 First-avenue, had his spine badly injured yesterday morning by driving under a shed in Forty-eighth-street, near East River. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

JNO. O'ROURKE, a mason, while at work yesterday on a church in course of erection in One Hundred and Fifty-third street, near Tenth-avenue, fell from a ladder a distance of thirty feet to the ground, and was severely injured. He was taken home by the Thirty-second Precinct Police.

A fire occurred about noon yesterday in the planing-mill of JOSEPH HOMAN, in Sixty-first-street, near First-avenue, doing a damage of $200.

The German Liederkranz Society will give a reception at their hall, Nos. 31 and 33 East Fourth-street, to their victorious singers, who won the first prize, a piano worth $1,000, at the Baltimore Sing-fest Festival, to-morrow evening. The singing society Melmonimen, of this City, were presented by the singing society Baltimore Maennerchor with a valuable silver pitcher at the festival.

DANIEL HENRY, No. 219 Third-avenue, cut his hand last evening with a circular saw at No. 218 Grand-street. He was sent to the Central Police Office, where his wounds were dressed by Surgeon ARMSTRONG.

WM. H. HEPBURN, a fireman, while attempting to stop a runaway horse at the corner of Seventh-avenue and Twenty-third-street, was thrown down and his head badly hurt. His wounds were dressed by Police Surgeon VAN BUREN, after which he was sent home.

JOHN ROWE, of No. 18 Jane-street, yesterday afternoon was obstructing the railroad track in West-street, near Washington Market, with his trunk, and Officer OGDEN, Ninth Precinct, attempting to remove him, he struck him in the face with his whip, inflicting a severe wound. He was subsequently arrested, and was locked up by Justice DODGE in default of $1,000 bail.

Professor LIPPE was experimenting on the third floor of No. 267 Broadway with oxyhydrogen gas, when the cylinder containing it exploded, and threw the fragments through the roof, damaging the building $300. Fortunately no person was injured.

SARAH KANE, aged 50, and residing at No. 32 James-street, died suddenly last evening of cholera morbus. The Coroner was notified.

POLITICAL.

OHIO.

The State Temperance Convention—The Resolutions.

The radical temperance men of Ohio held their State Convention in Mansfield on Wednesday, about forty delegates, representing the Fifth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth Congressional Districts, being in attendance. Prayer was offered by Rev. G. A. FRIZZE, J. A. SHUMAN, of Summit, was elected Chairman, and G. H. BARNES, of Cuyahoga, Secretary. The Chairman in his remarks said that each party claimed that the temperance movement would support it; and he was of the opinion that if the party leaders would stand back and let the temperance people work, it would be a good thing. The Committee on Resolutions reported a series of them, of which we give the following by a summary:

1. That we do not invoke the aid of State legislation, and we believe that the interests of the Government the greatest safety in the hands of a law which will not have oppressing the many by withdrawing money from circulation.

2. In favor of the taxation of the interest on bonds, which will make investments in them no better than to other legitimate investment, and in favor of a limited amount of greenbacks, with which to buy Government bonds, when offered for sale at market value, and when bought in the payment of taxes, to be used by saving gold interest and gold principal, and then put in circulation anew—enough to relieve the pressure felt in all branches of business.

3. In favor of changing the Internal Revenue laws, so that money, as far as taken from the vast interests of labor, concerned with the Revenue Department, and thereby lessen the enormous expenses of this department.

4. Demanding a repeal of the unjust and oppressive usury laws enacted in the interest of New-England money lenders, and in favor of free trade in the fullest meaning.

5. In favor of proper protection and compensation of soldiers.

6. Pledging encouraging to the fullest extent all people struggling for the rights of self-government, and commending the soldiers and sailors of the late war, and denouncing their preferment for Government offices.

7. That the welfare and happiness of all demand that the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage be prohibited, and will elevate to office only such men as are of sound moral principles, and in favor of the total prohibition of the whisky business.

The reading of the resolutions was frequently interrupted by applause, and a long discussion ensued. At length J. A. SPERGEN, of Cleveland, offered the following as a substitute:

Resolved, That we reaffirm the platform of principles adopted at the Crestline Convention, regarding it as but courteous to our friends in other States to waive the settlement of a complete national platform until the Convention in Chicago, on the 1st of September.

After a warm discussion this substitute was adopted; as was also a resolution declaring it to be the duty of the State Temperance Party to nominate no one for any office, State, county or township, who did not subscribe to the Crestline Temperance platform.

A full ticket for State officers was then nominated by acclamation. This has already been given in the Tribune. The delegates to the Convention, although few in number, seem to mean business, and loudly proclaimed that they had no faith in either the Republican or the Democratic Party. They characterized the Republican platform as meaning that the party endorsed the conduct of the war, and thought GRANT's administration a success; while the Democratic platform, they said, meant that the party was "opposed to the bloated bondholders."

NEW-YORK POLITICS.

The Attacks upon Marshal Barlow.

From the Albany Evening Journal, July 15.

The Democratic newspapers which represent the Evening Journal and some of its contemporaries as "coming to the defence of Marshal BARLOW," and "attempting to preserve him from the danger of removal under the attacks of the General Republican Committee," make the mistake of attaching considerably too much importance to what is really nothing more than a ridiculous and asinine display of spleen on the part of a self-imitated but really worthless clique.

In the narrow arena of local politics—in the organization of ward and district committees on a basis of bigoted exclusiveness—in a demonstration of the arts which make those who practice them self-seeking and unconscious—in skillful appropriation of patronage or power, and subordination of all considerations of public interest to their own profit or satisfaction—this so-called "General Committee" has displayed much of the cunning and adroitness which are frequently the dominant characteristics of small minds, and has managed to secure recognition and achieve success in a degree entirely disproportioned to its character or importance. Its importance and the services it has rendered in the various struggles of the Republican Party in which it has borne a part. But when it undertakes to lead State politics, and to become the dictator of Federal patronage, the Federal Administration, this blundering "close corporation" will find itself sadly wanting by tests to which it has been untamiliar, but which are the proper measure of its position.

So far as relates to the dispensation of leaves and fishes among a body of retainers who devote themselves to politics—to the management of primary meetings and caucuses—to the selection of delegates for Conventions—to the maintenance of an organization the chief value and importance of which is in promoting the fortunes of individuals—this Charley Spencer machine has proved a very formidable affair. But because of its gaunt and impudent self-assertion, and partly because of blundering impolicy and frequent derelictions on the part of city Republicans who are opposed to it, the "General Committee" has attained a factitious importance to which it certainly is not entitled, and the influence of which upon the fortunes of the party at large is in the highest degree pernicious. Of the 47,000 Republicans who voted for GRANT last Fall, it is safe to assert that not one-half are content to dance when CHARLEY SPENCER fiddles. The "Committee" is not in harmony with the pretensions of the "Committee," its utter lack of statesmanship, the coarse and vulgar demonstrations of its leaders, its wanton and unjustifiable persecution of true Republicans, and its uniform practice of assuming to control all the patronage and emoluments of which the party secures possession. It is time for Republicans throughout the State to let these self-sufficient gentlemen understand that the party cannot be run for their exclusive benefit, nor forced to accept their dictation; that if they will not consent to the same discipline and the same terms of service imposed upon other members of the organization, they must stand aside, and give place to those who will do so.

In some respects, the despicable assault upon Marshal BARLOW must prove advantageous. It will serve to show how sweeping are the pretensions of this "Committee," and how unworthy the motives by which it assumes the right of controlling public affairs. The only complaint against the Marshal is, that he would not appoint as his subordinates, certain curb-stone politicians and bar-room statesmen, who are hangers-on and fulgemen of the faction. Nobody charges that his duties are not thoroughly performed; he has, indeed, thus early achieved an enviable reputation for exceptional zeal and well-directed energy. Nobody pretends that he has shown any want of sympathy with, or fidelity to the Republican Party. His deputies are all thorough Republicans, and some of them have been especially prominent in the struggles of the past few years. There is but one count in the indictment, as drafted by Mr. KINGSLEY, and elaborated for presentation to the Executive by the great Mogul, CHARLEY SPENCER. It is that when a delegation of the "Committee" impudently offered him a list of its favorites, whom he was expected to appoint, he "put on airs like a King," and sharply said that if fidelity to the Republican Party was to be measured on such grounds, then he supposed he must be considered unfaithful, for he should manage the business of his own office. This was certainly very moderate resentment on his part of the insult embodied in the assumption that, having accepted a high position, he would consent to hold it as the mere tool and jumping-jack of a paltry clique.

POLITICAL ITEMS.

It is emphatically asserted that the statement telegraphed to some papers from Washington to the effect that Judge DEBT recently waited on Secretary BOUTWELL and insisted upon having the control of the Revenue appointments in Mississippi to aid in his election as Governor of that State, and that Mr. BOUTWELL rudely refused him, is a fabrication. It is asserted that Judge DEBT never asked him to make any appointments whatever.

The Massachusetts Republican papers are devoting much attention to the subject of the next candidate for Governor. Governor CLARKLIN, it is said, has no desire to go to Congress, and will accept a renomination if tendered him, as it probably will be.

The Ohio Republican State Central Committee held a meeting in Columbus on Wednesday, and adopted a plan for conducting the campaign. A resolution was adopted inviting Senator MORTON, of Indiana, to address the people of Cincinnati at such time as he saw fit. The meeting was quite spirited.

The Raleigh (N. C.) Standard condemns the proscriptive policy of the Wells Party in Virginia, and says that the battle which has just been fought there between the Wells and Walker Parties was fought in the Convention of North Carolina among the Republicans alone in the Spring of 1858, and that the liberal Republicans of that body then gained over their disheartening brethren the same victory for which the Virginians are now so earnestly thanking the Republicans who aided them.

ROBERT RIDGWAY's reported majority for Congress in the Fifth District of Virginia is 8,266.

The Petersburg Index says that the Virginians, while resolute to obtain self-protection, and to place, beyond question the rights of their own race, have given the pledge to guarantee to the colored people the same political status which they have demanded and obtained for themselves. And it forcibly adds: "In the execution of that policy Governor WALKER must be not only untrammeled, but supported and assisted. The people of Virginia pray elected to the chair of State an Rebel man; they could hardly then fulfill his pledges."

The official majority for Colonel WALKER, for Governor in sixty-six counties of Virginia is 16,000; the vote cast in the 34 counties in which the returns are complete is 64,000; total, 80,000. Complete returns of the Senate show that it will contain thirty Conservatives and thirteen Republicans, the latter being negroes. To the House, so far as heard from, have been elected twenty-one white and three colored Conservatives, and nineteen white and twenty colored Republicans.

Senator SUMNER has written a letter to Washington, in which he takes decided ground with the Administration on the Cuban question, holding that the Neutrality laws must be enforced at all hazards, and that the insurgents have not yet done what entitles them to recognition. He also says he finds the people in New-England with him in the conviction that we had better let the Dickinson claims matter rest awhile before trying to make a new treaty.

The Democrats of Maryland are appalled at the magnitude of the coming negro vote in that State. They estimate it at 40,000. The total vote of the State for President was 92,765, of which GRANT received 39,428. The Democrats very sensibly see that the 40,000 negroes will vote almost to a man with the Republicans, and one of their organs says "the danger is immense and cannot be exaggerated." As a result even Maryland Democrats are carrying favor with the blacks.

Arrest of an Ex-Member of the Iowa Legislature on a Charge of Murder by Poison.

From the Des Moines (Iowa) Register, July 12.

Last Friday JAMES MCQUINN, of Benton County, member of the Iowa Legislature from that county in 1852, and now President of the Board of Trustees of the Blind Asylum at Vinton, was arrested on a charge of having murdered a young man by the name of HODGES, last Winter, by poisoning him. The particulars, as stated to us and gleaned from the news current in the locality where the murder was committed, are these: A little more than a year ago, HODGES married a young woman with whom MCQUINN is alleged to have had improper relations, and settled on a farm in that county. During the early part of last Winter, their house and all its contents were burned, leaving them homeless. Mr. MCQUINN offered them the privileges of his home, which they accepted. About January last HODGES was taken sick, and was kindly cared for by the second. Medical aid was called and prescriptions made and administered. Dover powders was the medicine prepared by the Physician, which was by somebody changed for arsenic. The first powder administered put the patient into a deep sleep, while the second threw him into violent convulsions and caused his death in a few hours. He was buried, but something raised the suspicions of the friends of the deceased, and he was exhumed, and a post-mortem examination was held, the stomach taken out and sent to scientific medical men for critical examination. They closed the examination about ten days ago, finding very distinct traces of arsenic, and deciding that the death of HODGES was caused by that poison. As soon as the result was known in Vinton, Mr. MCQUINN was arrested and placed under bonds, and it is expected that the preliminary examination will be held this week. Eminent counsel has been retained on both sides. The community is horror-struck at this unexpected affair, and it is about equally divided as to the guilt of the accused. Mr. MCQUINN is a man of considerable prominence in Benton County, and has hitherto borne an excellent character as a man and a citizen. His friends are hopeful of being able to clear him from all suspicion of the crime, and trace it out and fasten it on the guilty one.

THE SEA SERPENT ONCE MORE.—The Pilot Boat No. 4 saw the Sea Serpent on the evening of July 4, off Cape Ann, about twelve miles from here. He was from 60 to 80 feet in length, lifted himself up out of the water, spouted water, and took things very coolly. It was calm at the time, and those in the boat are sure that it was a genuine monster of the serpent school. A patriotic specimen, perhaps. The old salts who saw it believe it a living thing, but have refrained from reporting the matter, lest it might be classed among fish stories.—Boston Post, July 12.
